Felix Frankfurter Nominated Justice Of Supreme Court

Harvard Law Prof to Succeed Late Justice Cardozo

56 YEARS OLD

Third to be Named to Tribunal by President
Roosevelt

Washington—(A.P.)—Felix Frankfurter of Massachusetts, professor of the Harvard Law School, was named by President Roosevelt today to be an associate justice of the supreme court.

Frankfurter was named to the vacancy created by the death last July of Benjamin N. Cardozo of New York.

The senate quickly referred the Frankfurter nomination to its judiciary committee.

Prior to Frankfurter's appointment, some senators had urged that a westerner be named, since that section now is unrepresented beyond Minnesota.

Favorable Comment
But first senatorial comment was from the west, and favorable. Senator Murray (D-Mont.) asserted that "Prof. Frankfurter has the reputation of being a very able lawyer of the supreme court rank."

Senator Capper (R-Kans.) called the appointment "a very wise move" and said that President Roosevelt had named "a man whom the senate would confirm with little opposition."

Senator Minton (D-Ind.), an administration supporter, beamed "I think it's great," and Senator Wagner (D-N.Y.) commented "an excellent appointment."

Senators Taft (R-Ohio), Vandenberg (R-Mich.) and Clark (D-Mo.) declined comment on the nomination, although they praised Frankfurter's personal integrity.

Thomas Is Critical
Representative Thomas (R-N.J.) was critical.

"He said the president 'might as well have named Earl Browder or Harry Bridges.'"

Speaker Bankhead predicted "the appointment will be entirely satisfactory to the people because of his outstanding ability."

Representative Crawford (R-Mich.) interpreted the nomination as "further indication that the president is going straight ahead and surrounding and entrenching his program with New Deal sympathizers."

Frankfurter was the third member of the Jewish race to be appointed to the supreme court. The others were 82-year-old Justice Louis E. Brandeis and the late Justice Cardozo.

Frankfurter has had a long legal background. His chief sponsor on Capitol Hill was Senator Norris (Neb.), one of the leading liberals in congress.

Frankfurter, who is 56 years old and a native of Vienna, has been law professor at Harvard since 1914.

Frankfurter was the third appointment President Roosevelt has made to the tribunal.

It confirmed by the senate, he will succeed Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo, who died July 9 after a long illness from heart disease.

The new appointment is not expected to change the court's "liberal-conservative" lineup.

Cardozo Was Liberal
Cardozo, until he became ill on Dec. 10, 1937, led all his colleagues in supporting Roosevelt administration legislation brought before the tribunal.

There are now only two justices—McReynolds and Butler—who are described by the two administrations as "conservative." Both are Democrats and have been the leading court opponents of New Deal legislation.

President Roosevelt's other appointments were Senator Hugo L. Black of Alabama to succeed Willis

NAMED TO COURT

Felix Frankfurter, Harvard law professor, today was appointed to the United States Supreme Court by President Roosevelt. If the senate confirms him, Frankfurter will succeed the late Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo.

Insurgents Claim Capture of Major Defense Position

Report Key to Government Line Is Taken in Eastern Spain

Burgos, Spain—(A.P.)—Insurgent headquarters said today that Borja Blancas, southern end of the government's strongly-fortified main defense line in eastern Spain, had been "occupied" by Generalissimo Francisco Franco's legionnaires.

An official communique said the legionnaires entered Borja Blancas, about 67 miles west of Barcelona, this morning while other troops surrounded the town.

Victory at the key town on the highway and railroad to Tarragona, insurgents said caught the government line before Lerida between two blades of an insurgent scissor.

Hendaye, France (at the Spanish Front)
The Spanish insurgents announced officially today that Generalissimo Francisco Franco's legionnaires had fought their way into the outskirts of Borja Blancas, southern key to the government defense line in eastern Spain.

Unofficial reports reaching the French frontier said Generalissimo Franco's forces already had captured the little city in the Urgel tableland of southern Lerida province, about 67 miles west of Barcelona.

The insurgents' communique, however, said they were fighting hand-to-hand in the streets, cleaning out houses on the city's edges.

They said they had captured 3,000 prisoners in an encirclement of Borja Blancas accomplished so swiftly that retreating government troops had to abandon heavy artillery in position.

They disclosed for the first time that Franco had put six army corps into his 14-day-old big push toward the government capital.

3 Dead, Score Injured In Tennessee Cyclone

Lurray, Tenn.—(A.P.)—Homeless families picked over debris left in west Tennessee today by cyclonic winds that took at least three lives, injured some twenty persons and demolished homes and store buildings.

Striking last night following a period of unseasonably warm weather, the storm cut a well-defined path through the area.

The dead were Mrs. Cecil Wilson, Bartlett, killed when her farm home was demolished; Mary Ann Wilson, 4, her daughter; Monroe Willis, 45, Sierston, killed when his home collapsed.

Many of the injured were taken to Jackson, Tenn., but only five remained in hospitals there today. They are expected to recover.

Two Adopted Daughters Inherit Author's Estate

Portage, Wis.—(A.P.)—The will of Zona Gale Breece, on file in probate court today, left the bulk of the novelist's estate to her two adopted daughters, Leslyn, 12, and Mrs. Juliette Breece Bennett, both of Portage.

The amount of the estate left by Mrs. Breece, who died Dec. 27 in Chicago, has not been determined. She owned considerable real estate here.

Most of the nominations sent to the senate for approval were appointments made during the adjournment of congress but which must be confirmed by that branch of congress.

Among new appointments was that of Charles E. Clark of Connecticut to be judge of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the second circuit covering Vermont, Connecticut and New York.

Bridges Lashes At Harry Hopkins

Also Assails Nomination Of Former Michigan Governor

Washington—(A.P.)—President Roosevelt's appointment of Harry L. Hopkins as Federal Reserve Bank governor today was attacked on the senate floor today by Senator Bridges (R-N.H.).

"In his appointments the president apparently has made a specialty of naming lame ducks, people who have been repudiated in their own districts," the senator shouted.

"Mr. Hopkins has been repudiated in the last election by the people of the entire nation."

Bridges asked the senate to investigate carefully qualifications of Hopkins to be secretary of commerce and Murphy to be attorney general, before confirming them.

Bridges opened his verbal attack shortly after Majority Leader Barkley (D-Ky.) had asked that all presidential nominations received today be referred to the proper senate committees for action. Hopkins and Murphy were included in a long list.

Bridges was especially critical of Hopkins.

Rift Indicated On Revision of Neutrality Act

No Suggestion Made as to Changes Favored,
Pittman Says

FIGHT PROBABLE

Attempt to Appeal Law
Would Meet Resistance in Senate

Washington—(A.P.)—President Roosevelt's challenge to aggressor nations stirred up a congressional conflict today over revision of the neutrality law.

Chairman Pittman (D-Nev.) of the senate foreign relations committee interpreted a portion of the president's annual message as an invitation to congress to revamp the act, but said there has been no suggestion as to the form the revision should take.

There were signs that any attempt to repeal the law would meet with strong senate resistance.

"The American people wrote that law," said Senator Nye (R-N.D.). "It was legislation to keep this country out of other people's wars. I don't believe any force can repeal it."

The neutrality law directs the president to prohibit export of arms to warring nations. A "cash and carry" provision gives him power to limit shipments of supplies to those bought for cash and transported in vessels of the purchasing nation. A specific amendment bars arms shipments to Spain.

Repeal Aggressor
The president told congress yesterday this country should avoid any action or lack of action that would encourage, assist or build up an aggressor.

"We have learned that then we deliberately try to legislate neutrality," Mr. Roosevelt said, "our neutrality laws may operate unevenly and unfairly—may actually give aid to an aggressor and deny it to the victim. The instinct of self-preservation should warn us that we ought not to let that happen any more."

Senator Pittman said he did not interpret this passage to mean the administration would ask congress to give the president power to name aggressor nations and place economic sanctions against them.

Nye said the neutrality law had strong bi-partisan support from such men as Senators Vandenberg (R-Mich.), La Follette (P-Wis.), Wheeler (D-Mont.), Bone (D-Wash.) and Clark (D-Mo.).

Clark injected another controversial subject into consideration of peace policy by introducing a war referendum resolution, similar to that which the administration forced down in the house last year. It would amend the constitution to require a popular vote before war could be declared, except in case of invasion of North America.

Grocery Clerks in Chicago are Given
$500,000 Pay Boost

Chicago—(A.P.)—A labor contract signed today will give 10,000 Chicago grocery clerks a $500,000 aggregate raise in pay and cut nine hours from their work week.

After six weeks negotiation the contract was signed by the Community Retail Stores association, representing 3,400 neighborhood grocery stores, and the Grocery Clerks' union, Local 1,248, an A.F. of L. affiliate. It marks the second year of contractual relations between the employers' association and the union.

Max Caldwell, business manager for the union, listed the benefits obtained under the new contract: A reduction in working hours from 57 hours per week to 48; a 12 per cent increase in minimum pay for women employees; a 25 per cent increase in pay for extra men employed during weekends and on rush days and a 35 per cent increase for women employed in the same way; a week's vacation with pay for all regularly employed employees.

Leonard Armanetti, president of the association, estimated the pay increases would raise the annual pay rolls of the retail stores about $500,000 a year.

Wants Munitions Industry Put on 'Stand-by' Basis

House Military Group
Head to Lead Drive
For Army Air Bases

Washington—(A.P.)—Chairman May (D-Ky.) of the house military committee indicated today he would lead a drive for new army air bases and for a $50,000,000 program to stock up a huge production of it at one time, he said, in voicing opposition to a 10,000-plane force.

"We should provide a plan, however, by which private industry may be induced with government assistance to put their munitions plants in stand-by condition, ready for mass production at a moment's notice."

"I am in favor of spending at least $10,000,000 a year for the next five years for educational work with the industrial plants."

Discussion was renewed of plans to create a department of national defense. Representative Maas (R-Minn.), senior minority member of the naval committee, reintroduced a bill to create a general staff for the navy. He suggested appointment of a joint senate-house committee to review the nation's entire defense policy.

4 Burn to Death in Tenement Fire: Over
150 Forced to Flee

New York—(A.P.)—Flames sweeping through a five-story tenement house in upper Manhattan early today burned four persons to death and drove between 150 and 200 survivors into the pre-dawn streets amid a series of spectacular rescues.

Two cripples in the burning structure, including a 50-year-old man paralyzed from the hips down, waved frantically until they attracted the attention of firemen. They were reached by scaling ladders.

Authorities were investigating a report that the blaze started in a Christmas tree outside the door of two of the victims.

Crowds cheered the rescue of Cliff Blauvelt, who dragged his paralyzed legs to a window on the fourth floor and crawled down a fire-escape to the second floor, where firemen reached him with a 10-foot ladder.

Another cripple, Mrs. May Carter, 28, picked up her dog, Kiki, and hobbled on her crutches to a second-story window. Firemen carried her and the dog down a ladder.

President's Budget in Brief

Washington—(A.P.)—Here is the president's budget in brief for the fiscal year 1940:

Expenditures—$8,995,000,000.
Receipts—$5,669,000,000.
Net deficit—$3,326,000,000.
Debt total at end of year—$44,548,000,000.

This compares with the following revised budget for the fiscal year 1939, which ends June 30:

Expenditures—$9,492,000,000.
Receipts—$5,520,000,000.
Net deficit—$3,972,000,000.
Debt total at end of year—$41,132,000,000.

President Asks 875 Million For Relief Through June and Favors Penalties on 'Politics'

Washington—(A.P.)—President Roosevelt, in asking congress today for a supplemental appropriation of $875,000,000 to carry work relief through next June, recommended strict legislation imposing penalties for "improper political practices" in relief.

The president, however, asked that the present program of administration be continued for the rest of this fiscal year to prevent disruption of the program, and suggested hearings and careful consideration before changing administrative policy.

He opposed turning the administration over to local boards, as has been suggested in some quarters. Anyone proposing such method, Mr. Roosevelt added, is "either insincere or is ignorant of the realities of local American politics."

The president's work relief message went to congress in the midst of a controversy over the placing of WPA employees under civil service. Opponents of this step interpreted the move as a trend toward making the WPA a permanent agency, and declared it would give a preferred job-holding status to many administrative employees they consider incompetent.

Civil Service Order
Proponents replied that it was a step eliminating the "politics in relief" for which WPA has been criticized.

Under an executive order issued June 24 by the president, 35,000 WPA administrative employees will be blanketed into the civil service Feb. 1.

In his message on relief, Mr. Roosevelt said it was his belief that "improper political practices could be eliminated only by the

Capone Still to Pay U. S. $20,000

Fines and Costs of $37,692 Already Paid
By Attorney

Chicago—(A.P.)—The government still has $20,000 coming from Al Capone but it will be ready when it's called for, his attorney said today.

Abraham Teitelbaum, counsel for the former Chicago gang lord, delivered a check for $35,000, and $2,692.29 in cash, to the federal court clerk yesterday.

That represented the court costs and fines assessed Capone after his conviction on three felony counts charging failure to pay income tax.

"We had a hard time raising it," remarked the attorney.

Upon his release from Alcatraz island prison, Capone must serve an additional year in a county jail and pay a $20,000 fine for failure to file income tax returns.

The gangster began serving his first term in 1932 and, with time off for good behavior, will be eligible for release Jan. 19. Capone has the choice of paying $20,000 more or serving an additional 30 days on his second term and filing a pauper's oath.

Apparently the choice has already been made.

"The money," said the attorney, "will be ready when due."

War Upon Gambling

Green Bay—(A.P.)—Cletus G. Chadek, new district attorney of Brown county, called upon town boards, city and village councils and police departments in duplicate letters today to cooperate in ridding the county of gambling devices.

"I'm not a reformer and I believe in home rule," Chadek wrote "but if the people of any community want the slot machines or pin machines out of it, they'll be out."

Informal today that some residents interpreted the letter to mean he would countenance gambling in areas where residents desired it. Chadek said "if anybody thought I was going to tolerate gambling, my letter was misunderstood."

Opposed to 'Violent Concentration' in U. S. Spending

DEBT AT RECORD

Seeks Huge Defense
Fund: Against 'Drastic New Taxes'

Washington—(A.P.)—President Roosevelt asked vast sums for national defense today in a multi-billion dollar budget that projected another deficit of $4,458,000,000 in 1940.

His annual report to congress on the nation's finances advised emphatically against a "violent concentration" in spending or "drastic new taxes." He opened the way, however, to "moderate tax increases" to meet increased expenditures of $422,000,000 for armament and farm relief costs.

He called for $8,995,000,000 of federal spending in the fiscal year beginning July 1 and estimated the deficit for that year at $3,326,000,000.

He asked $1,669,000,000 for national defense, including an extra $500,000,000 to speed up the armaments program. Of the latter sum, however, only $210,000,000 would be disbursed next year.

Must Be Prepared
Rethinking the preparedness theme voiced in his annual message to congress yesterday, the president said all are aware of the grave and unsettling developments in the field of international relations during the past few years.

"Because of the conditions of modern warfare," he continued, "we must now perform in national tasks that formerly could be postponed until war had become imminent."

Mr. Roosevelt did not specify the form of the suggested new taxes. He recommended continuance of a group of emergency "nuisance" levies scheduled to expire June 30.

Crediting the administration's current spending program with "meeting the existing upward movement of business and employment," the president said it should not be curtailed "arbitrarily or violently."

The budget included an estimate that at least $750,000,000 would be required to operate WPA until June 30. Present funds are expected to run out Feb. 1.

Request For WPA
For the next year, the president asked $1,500,000,000 for the WPA. He requested no new public works program but estimated $368,000,000 would be necessary to carry out work already underway.

Next year's $8,995,000,000 expenditure estimates, which did not include $100,000,000 to be used for paying off debt, were in line with a forecast of $8,492,000,000 for the current year. Receipts were set at $5,669,000,000 and $5,520,000,000 for the respective periods.

Mr. Roosevelt renewed his oft-repeated suggestion that the best method of obtaining a balanced budget is the promotion of economic recovery.

"We cannot by a simple legislative act raise the level of national income," he said, "but our experience in the last few years has amply demonstrated that through wise fiscal policies and other acts of government we can do much to stimulate it."

Defends Spending
"During the past nine years—a period which has seen the national income off from a high of $81,000,000,000 in 1929 to around $40,000,000,000 in 1932 and rise again to about $70,000,000,000 in 1937—federal revenues, even though on a higher tax base, have never completely covered expenditures."

The president said it was a "well known fact" that the current spending program was necessary to check a recession.

"Any decision to decrease those expenditures now that recovery has just started, he continued, would constitute a new policy which ought not to be adopted without a referendum."

Grace Moore Defends Curtsy to Duchess At Cannes Casino

New York—(A.P.)—Grace Moore, operatic and motion picture soprano whose curtsy before the duchess of Windsor at Cannes casino last month set wagging the tongues of international society, returned to the United States today defending her act with the remark, "everybody will be curtsying soon to the duchess, and I am glad to be one of the first."

"I always curtsy to an audience," explained Miss Moore, "both before and at the end of a performance. At Cannes I curtsied to the royal box, in which the duke and duchess of Windsor were sitting, and then curtsied to the audience."

"After all," she added, "the (duchess) would have been considered royalty long ago, if she had not been an American."

"The duchess gave happiness and courage to one man, which is more than most women can do and she deserves a curtsy for that alone."

New Governor of Michigan Seeks Labor Legislation

Fitzgerald Would Outlaw Sitdown or 'Wild-cat' Strikes

Lansing—Governor Fitzgerald, demanding that the restored Republican majority provide Michigan with "liberal" government, presented to the 1939 legislature today a far-reaching message outlining his views.

He asked for a labor relations act to provide machinery for the peaceful settlement of labor disputes, to place the forces of the law behind strikes that were called in a legal manner, and to outlaw sit-down strikes or "wildcat" strikes called by unauthorized labor union members.

Declaring Michigan's treasury was $30,000,000 to $50,000,000 "in the red," the governor instructed the legislature:

"There should be no new taxes. We must begin at once living within our income."

Fitzgerald, in his prepared text, warned the legislature against any attempt to sabotage Michigan's new civil service act to produce more patronage.

For Merit System

"I believe, firmly, in the merit system in state government," he declared. "I shall oppose vigorously any attempt to undermine the principle of civil service."

He served notice that he considered the pay rolls were overloaded, and that dismissals would be numerous.

Fitzgerald called for abolition of the state liquor store system and transfer of the sale of bottled liquor to private business under regulation of the liquor control commission.

He asked for a $200,000 appropriation, half of which would be turned over to the tourist and resort associations for advertising Michigan, the state to spend the other half to co-ordinate the program of advertising this state's vacation attractions, and to boom the sale of Michigan-grown farm produce. He urged appropriation of another $25,000 to be matched by agricultural associations, to augment the fund for advertising Michigan's farm stuffs.

He recommended a law to provide ferry transportation of automobiles and passengers across the straits of Mackinac.

Pension Proposal

The governor called upon the legislature to arrange its appropriations with the thought that old age assistance should be increased to a minimum of $30 a month. He urged consolidation of welfare agencies under a single state department, with control of expenditures vested in local government.

He recommended that the legislature divide its current session into two parts, the first of 60 to 90 days, to dispose of other business, the second section to deal solely with budgetary affairs, he said it would be impossible to provide the lawmakers immediately with a comprehensive statement of the state's fiscal condition, and that without exact knowledge of the extent of the deficit or the anticipated revenues, it could not make appropriations intelligently.

He recommended an appropriation of $45,000,000 a year to the public schools, exempt by law from any reduction.

The governor said the administration-labor relations bill would be submitted shortly.

New Chemical May Protect Against Mustard Gas Burns

Geneva, N. Y.—A new chemical compound for virtually complete protection for soldiers and civilians against one of war's worst horrors, the burns of mustard gas, was announced today by officials of Hobart College.

"Mustard," 20 years after the world war, still rates as the most effective poison gas. The new chemical, sprayed on clothing, was announced as protection for months against the burns.

The discoverer is Dr. Ralph H. Bullard, professor of chemistry, member of the American Chemical Society and several honorary science organizations, formerly an industrial chemist. The formula of the chemical was not made public.

out full understanding of what may be the result.

"May I say emphatically that I am not suggesting an ordinary budget which is always unbalanced."

"The ordinary expenses of the government should continue to be met out of current revenues. But I also hope that those revenues in times of prosperity will provide a surplus which can be applied against the public debt that the government must incur in lean years because of extraordinary demands upon it."

Near Legal Limit

The projected $44,458,000,000 public debt in mid-limit of $45,000,000, to the statutory limit of $45,000,000, Mr. Roosevelt is generally expected to ask congress to raise the limit during the present session.

Discussing emergency expenditures of recent years, the president said that "we have not been throwing the taxpayers' money out of the window or into the sea—we have been buying real values with it."

"The greater part of the budgetary deficits that have been incurred have gone for permanent, tangible additions to our national wealth," he added. "The balance has been an investment in the conservation of our human resources, and I do not regard a penny of it as wasted."

Bookkeeping Plan

For future bookkeeping, Mr. Roosevelt suggested that congress consider legislation to make the treasury's accounts of assets compare more nearly with accounts kept by commercial enterprises.

Under the proposed system, loans for self-liquidating projects would not be listed as expenditures. If the project returned a profit, the profit would be recorded as a receipt. If it showed a loss, the loss would be made up by the treasury and listed as an expenditure.

Such agencies as the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the Farm Security Administration would be affected by the suggested system. The self-liquidating projects which they financed would be mortgaged gradually as their loans were repaid.

In his specific budgetary recommendations, the chief executive urged that the Civilian Conservation Corps be made permanent. The agency is scheduled to go out of existence June 30, 1940.

imposition of rigid statutory regulations and penalties by the congress, and that this should be done."

"Such penalties should be imposed not only upon persons within the administrative organization of the WPA, but also upon outsiders who have in fact in many instances been the principal offenders in this regard," he declared.

Plans Another Message

The president said he would send in April, recommending an appropriation for work relief in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

He said no one "wishes more sincerely than I do that the program for assisting unemployed workers shall be completely free from political manipulation."

But he warned that hasty adoption of changes to be immediately effective and which radically change the present method of distributing funds would "greatly complicate the administration of the program in the coming months."

"I therefore believe," he said, "that the congress should make this question the subject of study and hearings, with a view to determining a policy to obtain in the fiscal year 1940, but that the appropriation recommended in this message should be made on the same terms as that for the first part of the fiscal year 1939."

Urges Quick Action

Requesting speedy action on the supplemental appropriation to prevent suffering, the president listed four factors as making additional funds necessary, over and above the $1,425,000,000 appropriated for the first eight months of the year.

Two factors, he said, were foreign developments and the new England hurricane. Others were that employment on WPA projects failed to keep pace with the need because of lack of sufficient funds, and what the president called a customary lag before the "impact" of the jobless reaches the WPA. He said the $875,000,000 sought would employ an average of 3,000,000 workers in February and March and a diminishing number beginning in April. He predicted the total would go down to 2,700,000 in June.

He said the WPA rolls increased from 2,900,000 at the beginning of July, 1938, to a peak of 3,350,000. This number has been declining in the last few weeks and on Dec. 12 it had fallen to 3,112,000. January employment on WPA will approximate 3,000,000, he said.

Foreign Situation

As to the relation of world events to the work relief load, the president said the "critical foreign situation has had an adverse effect upon American business and industrial employment in this country, and has been an unexpected deflationary force affecting the prices of commodities entering into world markets, such as certain of our important agricultural commodities."

"This has accentuated relief problems in important areas in the country," he declared. "In addition, the hurricane which devastated large areas of New England last September seriously dislocated industry and trade in the northeastern section of the country and added to the relief burden in that area."

The president said the relief program at present was being conducted at an average federal cost of about $61 per worker per month, of which only $2 was overhead administrative expense.

Vandenberg's Comment

In the congressional discussion of the civil service order, Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) said:

"It's a marvelous perversion of the ordinary American process."

"Ordinarily, the result of such an indictment as was filed by the Sheppard committee against the WPA would mean the 'wholesale evacuation of the 'gangsters.' Instead, they are to be rewarded by life tenure in their roving chairs."

Vandenberg referred to a report of the senate campaign expenditures committee which criticized instances of political activity by WPA officials and exertion of political influence on some WPA workers.

The executive order provides that WPA officials will be taken into the civil service by a non-competitive examination. The civil service commission could reject any that it found unfit.

Senator Byrnes (D-S.C.) chairman of a special senate relief committee, insisted this method was the routine procedure when department are taken into the civil service.

League Employs Actuary to Study Retirement Laws

Survey Is Preliminary to Proposed Uniform State System

Post-Crescent Madison, Bureau Madison—The League of Wisconsin Municipalities has announced that it has employed an actuary to make a survey preliminary to the proposed state-wide retirement system for municipal employees.

The actuary, Arthur S. Hansen, has already begun work and is engaged in drafting legislation for a municipal employees' pension system along the lines approved tentatively by city officials at the last annual convention of the league.

The suggested pension plan will have two principal features, according to league officials. It will "place compulsory retirement systems for policemen and firemen upon a sound actuarial basis, and it will provide a sound retirement system for those cities and villages which desire to exercise the option of adopting such a system."

"Unfortunate Experiences"

The league also observed, in an official statement, that "the experience in this state with the mandatory police and fire pension systems has not been satisfactory, and there have also been unfortunate experiences in other states with mandatory retirement systems for all municipal employees."

F. N. McMillin, executive secretary of the organization, has also announced that a state-wide conference of municipal leaders for the discussion of 1939 state legislative issues will be called by Mayor James Law of Madison, league president, sometime this month.

The league headquarters has asked any member official to make suggestions on necessary legislation affecting municipalities.

"It is believed that the prospects of securing the enactment of legislation needed by cities and villages at the 1939 session are very favorable," it was said.

'POOR BUT HONEST'

William H. Owen, "poor but honest plumber" who thinks legislating "ought to be better than working," was dressed in this manner when he arrived in Springfield, Ill., to begin his term as a member of the Illinois legislature. Clad in blue overalls, smoking a corncob pipe and carrying a big pipe wrench, Owen, 51, of Du Quoin, Ill., paraded with his hillbilly band through the state capital building.

December Temperature Above Level of 1937

Appleton's December temperature averaged 22.7 degrees, two degrees warmer than the same month showed, compared with nine of the previous year according to weather charts compiled by the Wisconsin Michigan Power company. The average for December of 1937 was 20.8.

Total precipitation and snowfall, 2.28 inches and 11.4 inches respectively, were both higher than in December of 1937, when they measured 1.83 and 8.6 inches. There were only three absolutely clear days last month, the weather charts showed, compared with nine the same period of 1937.

The coldest mark last month was 15 below, recorded on the morning of the thirtieth.

3 New Sewing Classes Are Offered at School

Three new sewing classes have been added to the homemaking division of the Appleton Vocational school for the second semester and will meet for the first time next week, Miss Mabel Burke, director of the homemaking division, said today.

A class in beginning sewing is scheduled for Monday nights and two courses, one in advanced and the other in children's sewing, for Wednesday evenings. All three will convene at the vocational school. The class in party food, taught by Mrs. Dorretta Lorenz, will meet for the first time next Friday night.

Woman, Locked From Home, Calls Firemen

Mrs. H. L. Donohue, 711 E. Franklin street, appealed to the city fire department at 10:10 last night when she lost her keys and was unable to enter her locked house. The firemen obliged in the dense fog about 10:35 last night to the home of Walter Airis, 915 N. Fox street, when ashes set fire to a wooden container. No damage was reported.

Woman, 75, Expertly Manages Farm After Husband's Death

BY ALLEN F. WALCH
Manawa—The kindly old lady with the homely smile haloed somehow by the wreath of gray hair rises slowly from her chair, places another stick of hard maple in the old fashioned heater stove in the living room, and goes back to the book she is reading. It is the Bible, and she turns the pages until she comes to the passage that has been her favorite throughout the years.

"Therefore, be of good courage, speaking words of cheer one to another," she reads, and the wrinkles on her kindly face seem to fade away under the inspiration of the words.

For Mrs. W. W. Bigford, 75, widely known Manawa woman, has occasion to look back on 1938 with wistful memories tinged with both sorrow and satisfaction.

Way along last February when Mr. Bigford, then 81 and just plain "Bub" to his wife throughout the entire 54 years of their married life, neared the end of his days, he took his wife by the hand and talked earnestly with her for a short while.

"Mom," he said, "I've lived my life and we both know it. I want you to stay on the farm. I know that you can handle it for I have trained you well."

"Now, come spring, I want you to sow barley in that northeast field, oats on the south, and plant a little more corn than we did last season. Buy all new seed, of course, and be awfully particular about the alfalfa. You remember we lost our seeding two years ago."

"Better buy a couple of hundred fence posts, too, and fix up that one pasture. Never mind much about potatoes, because I don't think they'll bring a lot this fall anyway, but keep up the cattle herd and add to it if you can. Prices ought to be a little better in a year or two."

Shoulders Task

With her husband dead, the efficiency of Mrs. Bigford in the management of the entire farm, the manner in which she handled hired help, the steadfastness with which she followed the program sketched by him back in winter time, was the marvel of her neighbors.

When the new year came, Mrs. Bigford was content. There were the barns full of grain and hay. There were the fields in good condition, the fences and machinery repaired and ready for another year, the cattle herd as big and healthy as ever, the bank account balanced, the taxes paid.

"Never since we took over the farm when we came here from Fond du Lac county long ago in 1896 have we ever had a mortgage on the place, never has there ever been a cent of debt, never have we ever had to borrow money," Mrs. Bigford says. "He will be glad to know that I have done as he wanted and that it was his planning that helped me to carry on as he would have done."

Adult Education Subject as WPA Conference Ends

Kaukauna Man Is Speaker at Yesterday's Session

A program of speeches and discussions on adult education today ended the 3-day conclave of WPA educational supervisors and instructors from Region 2 which opened Tuesday in the Appleton Vocational school.

William T. Sullivan, director of the Kaukauna Vocational school, was the principal speaker at yesterday's session. Sullivan talked on democracy and its place in adult education.

This morning's program opened with songs and music, with Miss Irene Albrecht of Appleton at the piano. Speakers on the morning program included Dr. E. A. Weinkle, of the state office; L. R. Evans, Sheboygan Vocational school director; and O. H. Dorris, Fond du Lac Vocational school head. Miss Cecelia Mueller, Oshkosh, spoke on "Adult Education in The News."

T. R. Jessup, of the state office, addressed the supervisors and instructors this afternoon and the conference closed with sectional meetings and discussions.

The conference drew from Region 2 of the state WPA educational system, which has its headquarters at Green Bay and which covers the Fox river valley and lake shore districts.

Highlights of Presidential Budget Message to Congress

Washington—(AP)—Highlights of President Roosevelt's budget message to congress:

Sound progress toward a budget that is normally balanced is not to be made by heavily slashing expenditures or drastically increasing taxes.

On the contrary, it is to be sought by employing every effective device we have at our command for promoting a steady recovery, which means steady progress toward the goal of full utilization of our resources. We can contribute very materially toward that end by a wise tax program.

A year ago I recommended an increase in work relief, public works, and other related expenditures to check the downward spiral of business. The program undertaken at that time has contributed materially, I believe, to the existing upward movement of business and employment.

I believe I am expressing the thought of the most far-sighted students of our economic system in saying that it would be unwise either to curtail expenditures sharply or to impose drastic new taxes at this stage of recovery.

But in view of the addition to our public expenditures involved in the proposed enlarged national defense program and the program for agricultural parity payments for which no revenue provision has yet been made, I think we might safely consider moderate tax increases which would approximately meet the increased expenditures on these accounts.

I am recommending the re-enactment of the excise taxes which will expire in June and July of this year, not because I regard them as ideal components of our tax structure, but because their collection has been perfect, our economy is adjusted to them, and we cannot afford at this time to sacrifice the revenue they represent.

During the past nine fiscal years—a period which has seen the national income drop from a high of $1 billion dollars in the calendar year 1929 to around 40 billion dollars in 1932 and rise again to about 70 billion dollars in 1937—federal revenues, even though on a higher tax base, have never completely covered expenditures.

The greater part of the budgetary deficits that have been incurred have gone for permanent, tangible additions to our national wealth. The balance has been an investment in the conservation of our human resources, and I do not regard a penny of it as wasted.

Milk Output Decline Is More Than Seasonal

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—A seasonal decline considerably larger than usual occurred in Wisconsin milk production in the early winter season, the Wisconsin crop reporting service noted today.

From Sept. 1 to Dec. 1 production per farm declined about 22 per cent, while the usual decline for that period is only about 13 per cent. Average production on Dec. 1 was reported, was 188 pounds per farm compared with 177 a year ago and 188 for a 10-year average.

GEENEN'S

An Independent Congress Can Offer No Alibis for Its Work

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington—Those senators in their undertaker's clothes with flowers in their buttonholes, exchanging congratulations in their merry reunion on the opening day, and those representatives sitting under the klieg lights in the house with their children on their knees—they and all of the members of the 76th congress are the first-line defenders of democracy now. Seldom has congress met under the weight of such responsibility as now rests upon it.

Raymond Clapper

This congress is on the spot for two reasons. First, Hitler, contemptuous of democracy and parliamentary government, has during the last year outmaneuvered and bluffed the two big democracies of Europe. With his swift-moving, tightly controlled dictatorship, obliged to consult no one except himself, Hitler has made the democracies appear cumbersome, confused, indecisive, inadequate.

Democratic government, as a method, is on the defensive. It has been discarded as unworkable by several of the larger powers.

In this situation, the American congress, as the parliamentary body of the world's largest democracy, has a special responsibility to revitalize and instill new confidence in popular representative government, to demonstrate by example, that it does work.

Failure of congress to acquit itself creditably in this session, would do much to further discredit representative government and to undermine confidence in it.

Second, within our own system congress has set itself a task, for many years the power of the executive as against the legislative branch has increased and this tendency has accelerated under Roosevelt. Congress is in rebellion and is attempting to escape from White House domination.

For a time congressional independence will be popular but if months go by with nothing but bickering and stalling and floundering, there will be a cry for leadership again. Actually the members themselves are so much in need of leadership that even as they drop Roosevelt they cluster around Vice President Gurner and seek his guidance. Congress wants to go it alone and it will be judged by its results. It can have no alibi now.

Power Running Wild in Dictator Countries

Power got out of hand in many countries. It is running wild in Berlin, Rome and Tokyo. Power, as Bertrand Russell says, must be tamed. But that does not mean substituting indecision and inaction. It must be demonstrated—and the American congress is a good place to stage the demonstration—that popular representative government can function effectively through legislative bodies.

De Tocqueville pointed out 100 years ago that democracy does not have the skill of an adroit despotism. But it does produce a spirit of activity and force and awakens energies which the most skillful despotisms are often unable to awaken.

Congress must, therefore, with voluntary application, industry and restraint, accomplish what a dictatorship does by fiat.

Defense Needs Benefit Of Coordinated Treatment

Dictators can coordinate and impose unified policy. Democracy never needed effective coordination as it does now in face of the threatening world situation.

National defense above everything else needs the benefit of coordinated treatment. Congress will never be able to ascertain our defense needs and provide for them satisfactorily by working through rival committees, each grabbing for power and ruled by petty jealousies, each hoarding its own row in disregard of any other committee.

Such a complicated matter as national defense can be studied intelligently only by a joint house and senate committee, embracing ranking members of both parties from standing committees concerned with various aspects of defense.

To manhandle national defense at this time, and to subject it to log-rolling and pork barrel grabbing, would be monumental stupidity. Congress needs to look at the whole problem in its balanced relationships between army, navy, air power, neutrality legislation and over-all general foreign policy. Only a joint committee can do justice to that task.

Advertising campaigns will be laid as soon as 50 per cent of the eligible contributors have signed contract, it was said.

The Wisconsin agency is intended to be a part of a tri-state dairy promotion plan inaugurated by officials of Wisconsin, Iowa and Minnesota several months ago.

"Now is the time for the dairy industry to launch a campaign that will sell its products in competition with highly advertised competitive goods. We want to inform consumers of the value of all dairy products," the association's statement said.

"Don't take it to heart, Oscar—my wife made fun of my biscuits, too, when I was first married!"

Solicit Funds to Finance Program Of Dairy Groups

Value of Milk Products to Be Advertised on National Scale

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—Action had been begun this week by the leaders of the Wisconsin Dairy Industries association, the first group of its kind in the country, to finance the dairy industry's national expansion program, designed through advertising intensively to increase the national consumption of all dairy products, on which much of Wisconsin's prosperity hinges.

Contracts for contributions to the industry's advertising fund have been sent to all dairy plants by the association, reports Bryce S. Landt, Wisconsin Dells, chairman of the new organization.

A goal of $100,000 has been set as the minimum to be guaranteed before the contracts are effective. The contracts provide for 50-cent contributions on each 1,000 pounds of butter fat. Contributions will be made on this basis by most of the plants in Wisconsin, the promoters expect.

All Represented "This is less than 1 per cent per cow each month, but it will amount to about $200,000 when all Wisconsin plants contribute," directors of the group said today in a statement.

Cheese, butter, fluid milk, ice cream and all the dairy groups are represented in the association by a director apiece.

Lee I. Yorkson, prominent Waukegan resident, has been named supervisor.

'Final Postponement' In Sidley Will Case

Racine — County Judge J. Allan Simpson Wednesday granted what he termed the "final postponement" of the contest over the will of Mrs. Maybelle Horlick Sidley, the late malted milk heiress. The trial originally was scheduled Jan. 11.

Judge Simpson said the new trial date might be Jan. 17 but that he would fix a date definitely within a few days and would permit no further delay.

The postponement resulted from the illness of Attorney Donald K. Jones of Chicago, who represents St. John's Military academy of Delafield, Wis., one of the beneficiaries of Mrs. Sidley's will.

Roosevelt's Talk Marks Advance on Previous Papers

Message Is Explicit Statement of Aims of Administration

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — President Roosevelt's message marks an advance on all his previous state papers. For it is an explicit statement of the aims and purposes of his administration, made without rancor or emotion, but with a deeply earnest conviction that liberalism as he conceives it is building a stronger and better America.

With the president's survey of the international situation, few observers will dissent, indeed, there will be widespread approval of the clear re-statement of America's traditional policy of awareness to dangers that confront democracy. The national defense plans are yet to be revealed in detail, but their basic purpose is no longer in doubt throughout the world—America lines up with democracies and can no longer remain "indifferent to international lawlessness anywhere."

But does this mean war? Not at all, the president answers, for he points out there are other means "of commanding a decent respect for the opinions of mankind." He then proceeds to mention the one-sided application to world events which rigid neutrality laws require, and hints that America will use her economic influence and economic power to bring home "to aggressor governments the aggregate sentiments of our own people."

Domestic Issues

When the president transfers the thoughts of readers and listeners from international questions to domestic issues, he seeks, of course, to persuade the American people that a "united democracy" is necessary to ward off trouble from the outside, and with this broad statement few will quarrel. When it comes, however, to deciding how social and economic reforms can bring unity at home through removal of the present unemployment and threats of economic crisis growing out of a rising debt, Mr. Roosevelt will find economists differing with him.

The whole thesis of the president's speech is that the United States can work up to an $80,000,000,000 national income by careful planning and that the tax yield from such a national income would be around $8,500,000,000 a year, or about enough to balance the average budget nowadays.

Statistically, the president is right. The tax rates now in effect are so much more productive of revenue than when the 1929 rates were on the statute books and we were on the verge of a national debt of $1,000,000,000.

income that a revenue of around eight and a half billion dollars a year could be obtained.

But could the tax revenue be derived on a sound economic basis, that is could more than 10 per cent be taken out of the national income by the methods now in use, such as payroll taxes and heavy taxes imposed directly on business operations, and yet cause national income to expand and not break down? The rules of experience show that it is all very well to project a large tax revenue, but it is quite another thing to collect it without causing the national income to drop.

It is a matter of debate, of course, as to what caused the 1937 recession in business, but a school of thought right here in the government for social security from the 1937 began to withdraw abruptly more than $1,000,000,000 and caused a halt in business and a consequent abrupt drop in national income.

It's the way taxes are imposed and where they are placed that makes all the difference in the world between a rising and a falling national income. Somewhat the same contention applies to the president's point about the total debt of the country, public and private, which he says, "is no larger today than it was in 1929 and the interest thereon is far less than it was in 1929." This is the kind of a general observation which on its face is true, but upon analysis does not justify the deductions which will be drawn from it.

Thus, while the interest on government debt has declined materially, this is not true of private debt to the same extent. Likewise, the writing down of private debt through liquidation has left the country with plant assets which are by no means functioning as they did in 1929. To put it another way, if we separate private debt and public debt, we find, of course, that private debt is the larger part, and just because liquidation has curtailed the assets of private citizens and has caused huge losses to the economic system does not in any way justify or relate to the fact that government debt has risen to an unprecedented rate.

Again and again, for example it is argued statistically that England's per capita debt is larger than ours and yet her population is smaller. What matters is not per capita debt or the size of a public debt, but the rate at which it is being piled up.

The practical question is how long America can pile up four billion dollar deficits every year and what effect will this rapidly increasing debt have on the whole economic system. There are but two alternatives—one, of course, is what may be termed national bankruptcy and a breaking down of government credit, and the other is depreciation of the dollar.

The first of these will not happen, because political power is too great to permit it, and, besides, depreciation of the dollar, that is, bringing the purchasing power down, is a much easier device from a political standpoint. It is a means of cutting labor's real wages before labor wakes up to what has happened. It is the politician's modern way of preserving his power, and it has been resorted to in other countries for the last decade through managed credit and managed currency and artificial devices for maintaining employment.

The device is usually long drawn out. It extends over a period of years and is, therefore, harder for opposition political parties to check. Deficit spending is the national policy of nearly all governments nowadays, and the question is at what level will the governments of the world stabilize their currencies and their prices and cause international trade—the life blood of prosperity—to be gradually revived and enlarged so as to produce more employment everywhere. Mr. Roosevelt's spending policy, whether it be for armament or relief, is part of a world situation, and it will continue, for good or for ill, till the whole world recognizes the folly of economic nationalism.

OUR RELATIONS WITH GERMANY

Unfortunately for America its Secretary of State was in Peru when the German government made protest over Mr. Ickes' needless attack. The acting secretary, Mr. Welles, is well informed and capable, but the head of every important office, when fit for the position as is Mr. Hull, carries many compelling reasons for each policy and wisely abstains from getting his foot into a hole in Europe, probably because he sees similar holes in the Orient or South America.

Mr. Welles, in his reply to the German protest, used language suggesting that America considers its officials have a right to criticize the German government because the German press is but a mouthpiece of the German government, and criticizes America and its officials freely and blatantly.

That is not the right attitude to take in a matter of this character. In fact the American people are not at all concerned about what the German press or the German officials either think or say concerning us.

We do not expect to be approved by men of the Hitler-Goering-Goebbels type and all the other little jumpingjacks that make obedience to them. We know that if they approved us it would be a clear indication there was something tragically wrong with our country.

When a German statesman or his rubber stamp, a German editor, wants to say something about America, it seems to us that he first begins biting on a big steel spike just to show how mad he is, and then he empties the German dictionary of every vindictive and vilifying word he can discover. Why should we take any attitude toward such a person as bereft of his full reason as if he had just finished four full quarts of Rhine wine, excepting in the tolerance of amusement?

It is not merely that we gain nothing by choking in fury and becoming livid in our denunciation but that we lose something.

We ought to say to the Germans under such circumstances—We don't blame you for being mad, we'd be mad too if we were over there with you.

Certainly the American people are sure to receive enough discussion of the German government and its leaders from the press and platform and should not expect further elucidations from our rulers, who must by very necessity often deal with German statesmen upon a multitude of questions where it were better for all concerned that personal abuse had not already raised the temperature to fever heat.

THE WORLD ADVANCES

Two interesting scientific discoveries were announced last week.

A new treatment for encephalopathy, a polite word employing the Greek root for brain instead of our own, and signifying a mental deterioration caused by too much alcohol, has been discovered at a New York hospital. Nicotinic acid is the basis of the treatment.

TWO COMMITTEES REPORT

Two congressional committees made unanimous reports to congress on Tuesday. And unanimous reports are rarities.

The seven members of the Dies committee, five Democrats and two Republicans, after sifting the evidence of numerous witnesses, came to some very definite conclusions concerning the Red-Nazi groups in this country, their purposes, actions and accomplishments.

The Nazi groups represented by Bunds and Black Shirts are rather eclipsed by the Reds because the latter not only have the indulgence of the administration but are even supported by cabinet members, appointed to high places in the government, and smiled upon by some mighty ones who expect assistance in return.

The country now is pretty well acquainted with the worming operations of the Reds and yet the people are often astonished to see a Moscowite face at the head of some of the sweetest sounding organizations in the country employing the finest words in the English language such as peace, liberty, equality and fraternity.

The principal thing we need in connection with the Red-Nazi groups is to uncover them in order to offset their cursed methods of subterfuge and deception. We wouldn't close their mouths for anything. That would be tantamount to the death penalty and who wants to kill someone just because he is a little "teched."

We do need, and the Dies committee will help us obtain, certain fair legislation concerning these hundreds and hundreds of organizations that are created just as swindlers create corporations, so they will have something new and attractive behind which to conceal themselves and carry on their impostures and jobbery.

The senate campaign expenditures committee likewise investigated numerous reports, found many of them made of chaff and rolling thunder, but ascertained definitely that relief and WPA were being used just about the way anti-administration leaders of careful word had claimed during the campaign. And worthy suggestions are made in order to prevent a recurrence of this orgy of political corruption, than which the country has never seen the like, not even with men like Harry Daugherty and Albert Fall in official harness.

Certainly the country will meet the threats from corruption and the Red-Nazi group with appropriate legislation designed to prevent or modify the corruption and to uncover those sinister bands of men who actually delight in attempting to wreck this magnificent country and bring it down on a par with those nations where hope does not shine in men's eyes, but only, instead, a dull film of ugly deception.

COCKTAIL PARTIES

Cocktail parties are the order of the day. They crowd upon one another like a mounting guard during the Christmas festivities but are frequent enough at any time. In fact they have become about as frequent as christenings. They are preludes to the banquet, dance, public meetings, or anything that furnishes an excuse. People congregate around a parlor while the master of ceremonies shakes the gin and orange juice in with the ice. Then everyone takes a snifter, and perhaps eats a sardine or something of that character. Then more sniffers are offered and whether they are accepted or not they must be offered. If enough are accepted a high point of jollity may be reached after which sleep or a doze is likely to follow unless more sniffers are at hand.

The pedigree of the cocktail party shows it to be a brat sired by Big Promises and born of Idealism. No one ever heard of cocktail parties before Prohibition or if they heard of them the subject was omitted from discussion just like joints in the slums and other soiled affairs.

The evil that men do certainly lives after them, but for how long who can say? Many observers think that with the still newer generation the excessive consumption of intoxicants will dwindle and there are a goodly number of encouraging signs upon the horizon.

But Prohibition's brat is likely to last another half century at least. We cannot get back to the place we were before we took on this monstrosity,—not right away. We must go through a sort of purgatory first.

MR. HEIL STARTS

Judged by the tone of his inaugural address Mr. Heil is commencing his term with "an humble and a contrite heart."

If this feeling is deep-seated and of the fiber it augurs well. Men who come to power in egotism or arrogance, despite the velvet with which they may sheathe the claw, are bound to disappoint because their attitude of mind already indicates the warped judgment that is bound to be employed upon important decisions.

The man who feels a certain fervor partaking of a spiritual or religious nature in his purpose to understand people, their rights, complaints and petitions, and make his decisions justly and tolerantly, has already made some advance toward his goal.

Of course the people of the state must watch and wait in order to make their calculations concerning Mr. Heil's promises and methods. They always have to wait. But in this instance they will watch intently too because the scenery at Madison is taking on interesting hues.

DALE HARRISON'S In Old New York

New York—The telephone rang in the shack which was headquarters for a Works Project near New York, and the foreman leisurely lifted the receiver. A moment later he stuck his head out the door and shouted at the crew of laborers:

It was the lunch hour and a half hundred men were standing around, some eating, others talking. A huge negro, gnawing on an apple, looked up.

"Who's calling me? That's me," he grunted. "Telephone call," the foreman said. The negro lumbered slowly forward, taking another bite of the apple as he barged through the door. Approaching the phone, he paused to lay down the half-eaten fruit on a nearby table. He picked up the receiver and growled "What you want?"

The half dozen men in the shack heard this aside conversation:

"I reckon she is... To the hospital! Cut across the throat, huh?... To the hospital! ... Too bad she didn't make a good job of it... Confusion? Whaddaya mean, confusion?... Plenty confusion with that woman... Transfusion?... I don't get yuh, boss... Blood transfusion?... Whose blood you talking about?... My blood?... I should come down there and give her blood? What for? I didn't cut her throat, did I? ...

"Naw, I ain't goin' to do it. I'm workin'... Can't understand that woman. Musta found where I did my gin... Yeah; four o'clock's quittin' time..."

He put the receiver back on the hook. He walked toward the door. Half way across the floor he stopped, turned, and retraced his steps to the table.

"Doggone near forgot my apple," he said grinning.

He picked it up, bit deeply into it, and strolled out, chewing contentedly.

There was a line in the papers the next morning telling that the worker's wife had committed suicide by slashing her throat.

A young woman came to town the other day. Twenty-eight years old and living less than 100 miles from New York all her life, she never had seen the city before, had seen but two movies and little else except squalor.

Her visit was one of those contest things—all expenses paid for a two-day visit to the Big City. To make the journey, she had to leave her husband and their three children to make out as best they could in the converted barn they called home over in New Jersey. Her husband supports the family on $7 a week.

When she had finished her visit, she said it was "the biggest thing in my life," and it wasn't hard to believe. The things New Yorkers take for granted—and which sometimes even bore them—were fairland wonders to her.

Her greatest thrill was riding in the swift elevators in Rockefeller Center, but her meeting with Tommy Dorsey, the orchestra leader, ranked next. He came over to her table as she sat marvelling at the splendor of the Terrace Room at the Hotel New Yorker, and she asked shyly if he would mind giving her his autograph. "We listen to you on the radio," she explained. "That is our only pleasure."

Tommy wrote his name and handed it to her. "That's fine," she remembered of meeting a charming little lady, may I have your autograph."

Like one in a beautiful dream, she wrote it for him.

Her single night in New York was frightening. They took her to a show. They had planned to take her to the formal Rainbow Room, but she didn't have a dress except the simple cotton one she wore, and they were afraid the rich gowns of the sumptuous night club might embarrass her.

She slept in a room 30 floors above the street. "I spent most of the night watching the lights of the city from my room," she said. "It has a real little porch on it, you know. I couldn't sleep, I'm not used to street noises, and I had to cover my head with a pillow finally."

The little travelling bag (borrowed from a neighbor) contained only one article—a flannel night gown. When she went home it was stuffed with gifts. And she said:

"I was afraid I wouldn't like New York people. I was afraid they would be hard and cruel. But they've been so good! They are like the people at home would be—if the people there had new clothes."

Looking Backward

10 YEARS AGO

The 1928 fire loss at Neenah totaled $11,261.23, all of which was covered by insurance, according to the annual report of Louis M. Rausch, chief of the fire department. The department answered 78 calls, laid 11,558 feet of hose and raised 718 feet of ladder. The ambulance answered 256 calls.

Loss of his sense of direction was the factor responsible for the run of Captain-elect Roy Riegels toward his own goal posts in the Tournament of Roses classic at Pasadena Thursday between the University of California and Georgia Tech, the Golden Bear center explained that day.

25 YEARS AGO

Thursday, Jan. 3, 1914

Enthusiasm over the proposed improved highway through the Fox river valley from Fond du Lac to Green Bay was being displayed that day at a session at the Sherman house with every community and county represented.

An effort was being made to discontinue Hortonville fair. With that object in view, G. O. Finkle and W. Roblee left for Hortonville that day to arrange a deal for the sale of the property of the Outagamie County Fair association. The fair had been unsuccessful the previous few years.

At the meeting of the Valley Mill and Mercantile company the previous afternoon, D. J. Ryan, Buchanan, John Garvey, Freedom and Henry Van Gompel, Vandenberg, were elected directors.

Lawrence college was to open its basketball season against Oshkosh Normal Friday evening, Jan. 16. Among the veteran cagers were Abrahamson, L. Witthuhn, Captain Henry Hooley, Alden Thompson, E. Witthuhn and Walter Tippe.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

AN OLD MAN SLEEPING

Heavy with years, the old man sleeps,
His pipe beside him, and his "specs"
Slipping upon his nose. ... He keeps
His cards beside him, two old decks.
He Persian dozes at his feet,
As if the too, were tired of time;
But any now upon the floor,
And to the window she will climb.

There was a day when grandpa's tongue
Was sharp; his ready smile was gay;
But now his senses have all been sung,
And there is nothing left to say.
He wakes and sleeps, his fitful breath
Falling upon the sunset air.
"All life is a receding death,"
We think, and touch his fading hair.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—It was Lord Lovin of Brathinsquate or some such place who lately surveyed the city of London and regretted that the Nazis hadn't bombed the place level in a spot or two so the town could be built over to better ways.

Grover

And at times we have thought it would be just as well if a long and trying war compelled this country to boot down some of its bronze statues for use as bullets—beginning with the city of Washington.

As regards its statuary, this city never has been able to hit its stride. Of course the city is not really to blame because every statue built to a Union general or a deserving naval explorer has to be approved by Congress if any government money is to be used for it—so perhaps the country at large is at fault. The country elected the congressmen.

But anyway, at one stage of the city's development there was a spirit of gratitude for help the Germans and French had extended us in breaking away from England. The result is that Lafayette Square, across the street from the White House, is dotted with monuments showing beautiful European generals cutting the bonds away from the adolescent country while half draped Liberty shivers in the chill breeze off the Potomac. A few paces farther from the White House an eagle at the foot of the Polish general, Thaddeus Kosciuszko, balefully bites off the head of a stubby bronze serpent.

Abrupt About Face

All these are in the spirit of a scared boy grateful for rescue from a growling dog.

But that tone switches within a block, for next come the bold and fearless Union generals and admirals whose statues imply they never knew a moment of doubt or panic.

Perhaps it is necessary that patriotic statuary must show all generals and admirals with jutting chins, stiff backs and menacing gestures. But if that is so, then each statue should be done over every few years. It is uncommonly depressing to come each morning face to face with the same forbidding glare from the eye of General Logan or Admiral Farragut and compare your own wavering purpose with the unchanging determination of the men in bronze.

At least a few of the French generals came over to help us in the pull off England's leg, and not alone because they wanted to see America free. Surely we are entitled to at least one foreign general with a sly grin to indicate that he understood the situation.

And while we are at it, we hold that the capitol interior could be improved, even with a paint-sprayer. The place was decorated by an Italian "naturalist" with the result that the walls are crawling with butterflies, prairie dogs, coyotes, squirrels, lizards and other vermin.

Who once knew a photographer who cleaned up on a three year contract with a newspaper which paid him $1 for every face appearing in the pictures he made. The result was that no man ever posed alone in that town and every print was pock-marked with gathering Rotarians or protesting farm delegations.

And that is the general appearance of the capitol. The place is littered with drawings of ancient plovers, swords, icons, printing presses, leaves, cotton gins, flowers, arrows and trees.

One artist drew a picture of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado on a wall one flight up from Vice President Garner's office. By some chance he found one spot unoccupied by a rock, or cloud, or visiting tourist. He couldn't endure such flagrant waste of space, so he honest to blazes, he drew in a rattlesnake.

Personal Health Talks

MINERALS AND VITAMINS

It is now well recognized that the modern refined diet of the American people is generally deficient in vitamins and minerals, particularly vitamin B complex (that is, B-1 or thiamin, B-2 or G or riboflavin, nicotinic acid or anti-pellagra factor, growth factor, weight factor, anti-gray hair factor, anti-dermatitis factor and several other unidentified entities which grow in or are always associated with vitamin B), sunshine vitamin D, calcium, phosphorus and iron. Sometimes, particularly thru the winter months and in northern communities, people suffer lowering of tone or even manifest impairment of health from insufficient daily intake of the anti-scorbutic vitamin C (ascorbic acid, cevitamic acid).

If the general population so commonly suffer moderate health deficiencies or functional derangements from such nutritional faults, how much more serious may the vitamin shortage not be in instances where, voluntarily or on doctor's order, the diet is much restricted? This restriction of diet which is already only barely adequate for the needs of the body or perhaps nutritionally inadequate for optimal health, not rarely makes manifest the signs or symptoms of what physicians call deficiency disease which has hitherto been marked or latent. The manifestations of the deficiency disorder, due entirely to the restriction in the daily intake of the vitamin or mineral concerned, confuse the picture and render difficult the diagnosis and the proper treatment of the original malady. Or in some instances the overenthusiastic "dieting" permits such a grave nutritional deficiency disease to develop that the deficiency disease becomes the chief complaint and remains long after the original trouble has passed. For example, take the sad loss of vivacity and vitality, well-being and immunity in many child-minded young women who, without proper medical advice, indeed in spite of many warnings against it, follow some freak reduction diet which in their simplicity they imagine hails from the movie colony.

Other conditions in which a similar serious nutritional deficiency often develops, thanks to the irresponsible fondness of Mr. and Mrs. Public for "doctoring" himself or herself, are stomach trouble, so-called "mucous" colitis (which isn't colitis at all but merely functional derangement, peptic (stomach, gastric or duodenal) ulcer, nervous indigestion, "intestinal indigestion," gall-bladder trouble, "liver trouble" and the like.

Practically every "May Eat and May Not Eat" diet list given or prescribed prior to 1927, if followed conscientiously for many weeks or months, may be depended upon to bring out manifestations of one or several latent deficiency diseases, even the your eminent specialist fails to recognize these manifestations and still believes or insists they are merely additional symptoms of whatever originally ailed you.

This applies with special emphasis in diabetes, for in diabetes, besides the importance of maintaining vity by an adequate intake of essential vitamins and minerals, vitamin B complex has a physiological action akin to that of insulin, that is it promotes or facilitates the oxidation, combustion, utilization of carbohydrate material.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Swell Powder

Some time ago you mentioned some kind of "swell" which makes delicious ice cream. I lost the clipping and would thank you to mention it again. Our children do not care for much plain milk, but in such thing... (Mrs. C. G.)

Answer—I do not recall mentioning it. We try to keep a tray of chocolate frozen pudding always on tap in the refrigerator, but between the children and myself, it doesn't last long. This is made with a powdered solid for the purpose. We like some additional baker's chocolate and some chopped nuts added to the ordinary recipe. When the news comes thru that there's a new tray ready, there is a regular football scrimmage here, and I often have to wait for my turn. I have always thought football too rough anyway.

Your Birthday

"CAPRICORN"

If January 6 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. and from 3:30 to 5:30 p. m. and from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. The three periods are from 8:30 to 10:30 a. m. from 5:30 to 7:30 p. m. and from 9:30 to 11:30 p. m.

Any existing state of disorder in home or office this day may cause confusion. Before being generous to others be sure that you are fair to yourself. Self-sacrifice is often accepted as a matter of course by those who benefit by it. It may not be duly appreciated this day. Keep in mind that spiteful actions rarely accomplish the results hoped for. Wrong will make the average person realize before the day is over that everyone has a conscience, and painful remorse is apt to be the penalty of wrongdoers. You might find that there is one way to play the game of Life, and that is "top the up and up." Married and engaged couples as well as those contemplating a matrimonial future, will do well not to be temperamental if they wish this to be a pleasant day.

If a woman and January 6 is your birthday, be careful not to be too independent for your own good. Value the friends you have. Many women, born on this date, spend too much time trying to correct the faults of others rather than their own, so guard against this mistake. Prosperity might not be right around the corner waiting for you, but it certainly appears to be headed your way, so do not get discouraged if it seems to be delayed. Through interior decorating, entering educational, missionary or musical work, painting, writing or some commercial activity your services may be in great demand, and your compensation far in excess of your most sanguine expectations. Love, most likely, will direct your matrimonial affairs.

The child born on January 6 must be encouraged to associate with children of its own age, rather than with those much older. Many children born on this date are tied too much to their mother's apron strings. If left alone they develop self-reliance and a remarkable amount of initiative.

If a man and January 6 is your natal day, your personal habits will have much to do with your degree of success. If you control them there should be a splendid future ahead of you. Work of a scientific, literary, theatrical, clerical, artistic, musical or promotional nature may enable you to be very successful.

A REASONABLE PENSION LAW

Editor Post-Crescent—It is generally conceded that needy old people should have a pension but how to get the money is a serious matter. The Townsend plan as now proposed is the best I have seen. As first proposed it was impossible. It is now proposed to levy a two per cent sales tax on retail sales and so create a fund, and whatever this tax produces shall all go to the old folks' pensions and be paid out promptly to all qualified old folks each month. This plan is sensible, sound and workable. The sales tax is not new in the United States. Many states have it and are well pleased with it. From these states we can estimate just what a 2 per cent sales tax will produce. Michigan has a 3 per cent sales tax on all retail sales and if all were applied to pay pensions it would pay about $15 a month to all over 65. So we estimate a 2 per cent tax would produce enough to pay $10 per month to all over 65. This amount if collected and applied to pensions would be matched by an equal amount from the Federal government, thus making it $20 a month to all who qualify. This amount would be quite satisfactory to the old folks. But in my opinion it is not necessary to pay pensions to old folks with an income of $50 a month and if the law only gave to old folks with a less income it would leave more to go to the qualified pensioners and might raise the pension to $30 a month, for the government matches state levies up to $15 dollars. This would be ample and satisfactory to all reasonable folks and all we can afford to pay. With this plan we need not apply to Congress for any aid. Each state can have it if it wishes it. I am sure there would be no protest to a 2 per cent sales tax for this purpose if people were sure they would go to the old folks and that they would themselves get it in due time if needed. If paid only to the needy it would all be spent each month and so help trade.

A reliable pension law will relieve the pressure for life insurance among the poor folks and so leave their premiums in the family to buy necessary things with. A reasonable pension law will help us very much.

Uncle Sam Needs Coaching in Selling to Latin-Americans

Herewith is the last of the articles on the Pan-American Congress, just closed at Lima, Peru, which former Senator Allen has been writing for the Post-Crescent. In it he shows how many factors influence sales of airplanes in South America, a region where "the airplane has no competitors."

BY HENRY J. ALLEN

The biggest type of merchandise marketed in South America today is the sale of airplanes. Along with it goes the sale of other war materials with now and then a war ship. The customers are the various Latin-American governments. The main competitors for the business are the United States, Germany, England, and Italy.

As usual, the United States suffers some in the competition because her selling equipment does not contain that blend of official diplomacy and government assistance which characterizes the efforts, in particular of Germany and Italy, where government subsidies are employed and the entire diplomatic staffs of both nations act as salesmen.

In the United States, not only are government subsidies to aid in the sale of American machines unthinkable, but ambassadors and ministers plenipotentiaries hold aloof from sordid business transactions, leaving the American agent dependent altogether upon the American commercial attaché, who is a minor officer of the embassy or legation, as the case may be.

Moreover, frequent developments at Washington impede our sales. A few years ago some United States aviation missions established in South America had created a growing business. The advent of an air-cooled engine gave the American planes an advantage. The simplicity and sturdiness of the American machines in general have given to the American manufacturer the same type of preference as the American automobile has enjoyed in comparison with other makes.

Nye Inquiry Effects
About the time the Germans and the Italians had begun to establish special aviation missions to develop their aircraft industry, fate intervened for them in the shape of the Nye investigation. No report of the efforts of the airplane manufacturers of the United States to sell airplanes in South America would be complete without mention of the effect of this Nye armament investigation before Congress.

Whatever the result has been to Washington, and however desirable the investigation was, the fact remains that in South America our sale of airplanes to governments will be affected for a very long time.

During the days of the investigation, everybody's dirty linen was washed in the open, including some clean linen belonging to people beyond any reproach. Doubtless there are both kinds of linen in connection with important government marketing in South America.

When the exposures of the Nye investigation began to appear in the American press, Latin governments shuddered and their agent quit dealing for American planes. Some Recent Plane Sales
While they still remember the Nye investigation, it has again become possible to talk about American equipment in the aircraft line, but this is only because of the indisputable superiority of the American aircraft. In spite of the handicaps, American airplanes to the value of over $1,000,000 in our currency have recently been sold to Latin American governments. This includes the recent purchase of 10 Northrop attack planes, of seven Northrop pursuit planes, and several amphibians.

Our future sales are also affected by the neutrality act. In a land of sudden emergencies, the Latin government are conscious of the uncertainties of doing business with a country inhibited by a neutrality act such as might suspend in the very air an aircraft bound for delivery to a South American government which had been passed from peace to war during the fueling of the ship.

The neutrality act makes difficult the closing of contracts. The other aircraft countries observing the embarrassment of the American agents, push on in the gleeful consciousness, not only that they have no restraints, but the direct support of their eager governments. Italy has established not only an aviation mission in Peru but a branch of the Caproni factory, which at present is an assembling plant but contemplates increasing it to a manufacturing plant.

Italy's Bad Luck
The Italians have recently had some difficulty with the functioning of their planes, and the superiority of the American machines as shown by the uninterrupted safe-hampered by the neutrality law, has been removed from the picture in Chile for the present.

Incident in Brazil

In Brazil, our severest competition was England, which has superior sales staffs seasoned by years of experience in South America. The Brazilian government had made a contract for a certain number of planes with a United States company. The purchasing agent had revealed that he possessed the power to sign the contract in this country. On the morning when the contract was to be signed, he made the astonishing statement that he had just received word from home that England was to be awarded the contract within the ensuing 24 hours.

Our agent, backed by the commercial attaché, revealed that the United States was the largest importer of coffee which is Brazil's greatest dependency, and that the award to England of a contract which had already been promised to us, was going to create an unhappy situation. The nearest approach we could get to diplomatic gravity was the language of the commercial attaché, but he made it severe. It sounded formidable, and the president of Brazil took a hand to the extent of issuing a proclamation that the United States should have one half of all the airplane business from Brazil.

In many of the states all of the competing companies are involved in trade deals to bind the bargains, while the United States companies must do business on a cash basis.

Airplane Is Revolutionary

In her recent dealing in Venezuela, Germany attempted to capture the business by cutting the price sensationally, depending upon her subsidy to make possible the delivery.

This chapter on the sale of airplanes to the governments in South America does not touch the commercial import of the airplanes in the Latin-American.

In a country that for four centuries has carried so many of the burdens of civilization largely upon the backs of donkeys, over tremendous mountain barriers into impenetrable valleys, the advent of the airplane works like a miracle. Lines of freight and travel are being established in all directions by a half dozen well organized airways companies. These are touching with new life remote points of production and consumption that have never before had a chance during all these years, to reach an outer market.

South America is one country where the airplane has no competitor. The development of its opportunities to the full extent will bring this Latin country to a new point.

$13,500,000 Is Spent for Vets Administration Consolidates Activities Last Year

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau
Washington — Nearly $13,500,000 were spent in Wisconsin in the fiscal year 1938 on account of veterans and their dependents for both direct and indirect benefits, the veterans administration announced today.

Excluding contributions from trust funds, the sum is approximately $13,452,647, including operating and construction costs of all facilities maintained by the administration.

These include several hospitals doing valuable research work and for which young medical graduates are being recruited, according to Administrator Frank T. Hines. They are given special courses before assignment.

The administration pursued the policy of consolidating its activities last year, noticeably in supply stations, and additional mergers are authorized for the future. Announced results are a considerable saving and better service, General Hines said.

Total compensation paid last year was $588,832,048. This went to 5,148 Civil war veterans, 2,814 veterans of the Indian war service, 170,755 Spanish-American, Boyer and Philippine veterans, 347,338 World war veterans and 33,162 disabled in time of peace. In addition, the dependents of 236,135 deceased veterans received pensions, among them a widow of the War of 1812.

The figures are of June 30, 1938.

Americans Might Do Well to Study Swedish Cooperatives, University Women are Told

AMERICANS might do well to adopt, or at least study, the cooperatives of Sweden, Attorney Frank McCulloch of Chicago told the Appleton branch of the American Association of University Women in an address Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. Elmer Jennings, 112 E. North street, and he gave an imposing list of reasons.

In the first place, he said, cooperatives have succeeded in lowering the cost of living in Sweden. Second, they have made a real effort to improve the quality of goods. Third, they have eliminated many unnecessary costs in production, among them large managerial expense.

The fourth point in their favor, Mr. McCulloch went on, is that they have helped private business, the reason being that the Swedish purchaser now has more money with which to buy, and the cooperatives do not sell all the commodities he needs. Fifth, the cooperatives have helped labor conditions in Sweden by paying higher wages and granting longer vacations. Sixth, by breaking up the monopolies, they have restored healthful competition.

Point seven in favor of the Swedish cooperatives, the speaker continued, is that they have organized a large part of Swedish industry on the basis of service to its members. Their success, he said, proves that selfish motives driving people on to selfish gain are not the only thing that will make industry thrive.

Help for Farmers

Cooperatives have insured also a fair income to the farmers of Sweden, they have furnished a common meeting ground for different classes, they have provided education for democracy and they are a move in the direction of international economic cooperation, Mr. McCulloch said.

Sweden still has its problems, he went on. There are still crowded homes and many agricultural workers get only between $400 and $500 a year.

"Yet there are forces operating in Sweden that challenge one's attention," he declared. "Industry is on a higher level than it was before the depression. Foreign trade is up, there is a building boom and the national debt is diminishing."

Only Part of Progress

The cooperatives, he explained, have played only a small part in this economic recovery, however. The government's stabilization of farm prices, its public works program, its housing subsidies and accumulation of funds to tide the country over the next depression have all worked toward Swedish recovery, he pointed out.

Unemployment in Sweden fell from 200,000 in 1933, their worst depression year, to 20,000 in 1936 and 9,000 in September, 1938, he said.

Quoting more figures, he pointed out that about 600,000 Swedish homes are connected with the cooperative movement. Although only about 10 per cent of the retail trade is handled by the cooperatives, their reduction of prices have had far reaching results.

Effect on Prices

He cited the case of lamps, which were selling in Sweden for 37 cents. The cooperatives warned the monopoly which was producing them that unless they lowered the price, they would begin production of competition to them. The monopoly refused to do so, said its price was already rock bottom, but when the cooperative set up its own factory, the private concern reduced the price to 27 cents and later to 22. Today electric lamps sell for about 17 cents in Sweden, Mr. McCulloch said.

At the business session which preceded Mr. McCulloch's lecture, it was announced that the drama group of the association would meet next Tuesday at Mrs. M. M. Bober's home, and that the Recent Graduates division would meet the same night to hear a talk by Attorney William L. Crow.

Appleton Players Win Bridge Match

In an exchange contract bridge match with Green Bay last night at Elks hall an Appleton team of eight won by the relatively close count of 254 to 221. Because the margin at the games played recently at Green Bay was much wider, Appleton's total count for the series is 59 as against 37 for Green Bay.

The Appleton team last night was made up of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. De Baufre, Mrs. Royall La Rose, Mrs. N. J. Wilmet, Black Catlin, Jr., E. J. Van Vonderen, David Smith and Burt Manser.

Fog, Drizzling Rain Fail to Dampen Sleighriders' Spirit

LAST night's fog and occasional drizzling rain failed completely to dampen the spirits of two parties of sleighriders who found enough slushy snow on the outskirts of the city to make sleighing easy. The largest party was that sponsored by the Blessed Virgin Society of St. Theresa church, whose three sleighs were filled with almost 100 young people. When they returned to St. Theresa parish hall for refreshments, Allen Warner led group singing, accompanied by Miss Jeanette Wood at the piano. The Rev. Edward Haessly was chaplain.

About 20 couples attended the sleighride given by the Viking Hi-Y club last night. The group met in front of the old high school and after a ride went to the Hearsthouse Tea room for chili and games. The committee in charge consisted of Frank Spencer, chairman, Clifford Lutz, Owen Larsen and Warren Buesing. Miss Beverly Breining and Chet Davis accompanied the party as chaperons.

The sleighride planned by the Junior Catholic Youth Organization of St. Mary Catholic church for tonight has been postponed because of the continuing rain.

The first of a new series of six card parties will be given by the Christian Mothers society of St. Mary church at 2:30 Friday afternoon at Columbia hall. Mrs. Michael Peters and Mrs. Fred Stip are in charge of arrangements.

Sons of the American Legion will sponsor another of their Friday night dances tomorrow night at the Legion clubhouse. Mrs. Peter Christensen, Mrs. Howard Van Ooyen, Mrs. Joseph Stoffel and Mrs. Ray Curry are on the committee. Students from the Beverly Breining studio will present a dance program as a feature of the evening's entertainment.

David Gallaher, E. Washington street, and Jack Courtney, Pierce court, entertained at a sleighride party Tuesday night for the former's house guest, Jimmy McCourt, Wisconsin Rapids. The group met at the Gallagher home and had lunch at the Courtney home after the ride. About 24 were in the party. Dr. David Gallagher and D. J. Courtney, fathers of the two young hosts, accompanied the group as chaperons.

Mrs. Louis Fuerst, N. Oneida street, entertained at a party last night at her home in honor of the birthday anniversary of her son, Milton. Court whist and Chinese checkers were played, prizes going to Milton Fuerst, Miss Ethel Hull, Eugene Jensen and Miss Mary Ann Culligan. Other guests were Carlton and Robert Fuerst and Allen Soile, Appleton; and Miss Julia Godschal, Kimberly.

A surprise birthday party was given Wednesday night in honor of Elmer Van Gompel at his home on Hendricks avenue, Kaukauna. Cards provided the evening's entertainment. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Peter Van Dinter, Mr. and Mrs. George Vandervelden, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Vandervelden and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Van Gompel, Little Chute; Mr. and Mrs. John Bestler, Mr. and Mrs. Conney Van Dinter, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Heckel and Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Houle, Appleton; and Mr. and Mrs. Martin Vandervelden and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Spindler, Kaukauna.

Claim Is Filed in Effort to Collect Monthly Pension

Widow of Policeman Starts Action at Clintonville

Clintonville — A summons was served Tuesday on Mayor A. A. Washburn and City Clerk S. J. Tilleson to appear in circuit court on the matter of a police pension claim by Mrs. Sylvia Kesting, widow of the late Officer Kesting, who served on the Clintonville police force. The subject was discussed at the regular January meeting of the city council Tuesday evening, after which it was referred to City Attorney C. C. Muller and the finance committee. An answer to the summons must be made within twenty days. The city denies the claim.

Representing the city band, E. K. Bard appeared at the meeting to request an appropriation for band concerts during the summer of 1939. While the aldermen agreed that they would like to grant the request, it was deemed advisable to postpone such action for the present to the increasing relief cases here at present. Mr. Bard also thanked the officials for the cabinet recently constructed at the city hall for the purpose of storing the band instruments.

The question of purchasing a stone crushing outfit from August Kuester was again brought up for discussion and was left in the hands of the public property committee, which was asked to report at the next meeting.

Explains Project
Stanley Warner, civil engineer, explained the sewer project on W. Thirteenth and W. Fourteenth streets, where it will be necessary to build a sewer pumping station. He estimated that the approximate cost of the station and equipment would be $2,500, which would be paid by the city. Each property owner along those two streets would be required to pay $1 per front foot for the sewer line. Because of a petition from property owners on those streets requesting a postponement of the project, members of the sewer committee were asked to explain the details to them and report at the next meeting.

Bills allowed for the last month included the sum of $1,100 for snow removal. The project provided work for a large number of unemployed men. According to a statement by the city clerk Wednesday, there are about 200 men seeking relief work here. The poor committee has arranged a budget whereby the relief work will be apportioned equally among the applicants. Single men under 21 will be given only 16 hours of work per month, while unmarried men over 21 may work 32 hours per month. Married men are given work according to the size of their family, in compliance with the state budget. The wage scale is 40 cents per hour.

C. R. Kant of the Rohrer Lumber company asked the council to grant a permit for the erection of a lumber shed 100 feet long along the river in the rear of the city hall. Because of the fact that this site lies within the fire zone, the council denied the request and referred

Van Devanter of Wyoming and Solicitor General Stanley Reed of Kentucky to succeed George Sutherland of Utah.

States in which the other justices lived when appointed are: New York—Chief Justice Hughes and Associate Justice Stone; Tennessee—McReynolds; Massachusetts—Brandeis; Pennsylvania—Roberts; Alabama—Black; Kentucky—Reed; Hughes, Stone and Roberts are Republicans. The other five are Democrats.

Van Devanter Retired
Van Devanter retired in the midst of the congressional fight over Mr. Roosevelt's plan to add new members to the supreme court. His retirement aided in defeating the proposal.

Black's selection resulted in widespread criticism because of his previous connection with the Ku Klux Klan.

Reed was confirmed by the senate unanimously. There has been much speculation over the possibility of other justices retiring on account of age. None was given any indication that he plans to do so.

Justice Brandeis is 82, Hughes and McReynolds 76, and Butler, 72. Ages of the younger justices are: Stone, 65, Roberts, 64, Reed, 54, and Black, 52.

Mr. Roosevelt still has a long way to go to break any record for the appointment of new justices. George Washington holds the record. During his eight years in office he named the original six members and filled seven vacancies—thirteen in all.

President Taft, who later became chief justice, is runner-up with six appointees. Andrew Jackson and Abraham Lincoln named five each.

In recent years Wilson appointed 3, Harding 4, Coolidge 1, and Hoover 3.

Prices of Farm Produce Higher Than During 1938

Go Up Despite Substantial Surpluses of Grains, Butter

Chicago—(P)—Farmers start 1939 with prices of important commodities averaging 23 per cent higher than they were at the bottom of the 1938 slump, analysis of Chicago markets showed today.

Prices have risen the past few months despite substantial surpluses of most grains, increasing supplies of some livestock and heavy storage stocks of butter.

This circumstance, market experts said, added weight to government forecasts that farm income will improve. Income is estimated to have dropped about 12 per cent in 1938 from the 1937 total, which was the best since 1929.

Comparison of prices, quoted on various commodity markets here with the low points reached by these products during 1938 showed grains have increased in value from 14 to 30 per cent. Quotations for choice and prime steers have risen 40 per cent, hogs 5 per cent and eggs 50 per cent.

Most important farm items except cattle, however, are priced lower than a year ago when commodity values were on the downward swing from the recovery peaks reached in 1937. Losses compared with a year ago range from 3 to 33 per cent. Compared with the low levels farm prices reached in 1932-33 however, current quotations are more than double, in most cases.

Higher prices received for grain, fruit, truck crops and dairy products have accounted for part of the recent rise in the general level of commodity values.

Olson, Johnson are Packing House With Impersonal Show

BY WESTBROOK FEGLER

New York—Two hard-working clowns from the middle west, the old vaudeville, carnival and night club comedy team of Olson and Johnson, have had an unusual experience in New York. After years of trouping in the high minors they hit town with a loose-jointed show called "Hellzapoppin," which soon burst the seams of one house and moved into the Winter Garden, where they seem likely to run on and on. That is not unique, but, on the side, the men have become the subject of a controversy, slightly touched with bitterness. The question is, "Are they funny?" and the discussion has led to cold-blooded and disenchanted analysis of humor and comparisons between spontaneity and premeditation, reminiscent of debates on the distinction between love and lust, courage and foolhardiness, capital and income.

Olson and Johnson are safe, for paravis now are beginning to nominate their young at birth for seats at "Hellzapoppin" when they come of age, and it may become necessary to adopt a system of selection of future clients based on geographical, political and social fitness, combining the best elements of those employed for filling the rosters of exclusive prep schools and the United States Supreme court.

From personal observation I can say that the customers offer no resistance or that if they do resist they are quickly overpowered, and my own reaction to the expert, conscientious scoffing is about the same as that of a man who comes away from a prize fight thrilled by the bitter struggle and dramatic knock-out, to read in the morning papers that he has been deceived by a sor-did mockery, or fake.

Now that my attention is called to it, I have to admit, slowly and with resentment, that almost everything that Olson and Johnson do was done for years and years in vaudeville shows and that they apparently have made high-priced and exclusive hilarity of that quality which I am told was called "corny" by the profession and "lousy" by the patrons. But if I admit that the same vaudeville acts, performed as vaudeville, even in a second-rate house, would drive the customers down the fire escape in esthetic panic, I still have to insist the people in this show do them with an extra lick, which makes the difference between dead and dusty vaudeville houses and the current confusion at the Winter Garden.

Bring Humor Back Along Homely Old Street
I would add, however, a feeling that, however deliberate and studied their seemingly offhand nonsense, Olson and Johnson have taken on the popular sense of humor around a corner and back along a homely old street so long unfrequented that it had been forgotten. For years the patrons of night clubs and theaters here and yonder have been treated by famous comedians as though they were not-too-welcome intruders in private jollifications arranged for the purpose of permitting them to discuss their personal affairs, their wealth, their radio contracts, their moving picture successes and their families. The celebrated artists among them have appeared not as entertainers paid to amuse but with a manner of condescension, as celebrities giving their time and art in generous response to great demand. They learned to smirk at the customers and to indulge in professional small-talk about the mechanics of "selling" a song to the house and building up a gag—matters which belittled the patrons' own intelligence and their standing in the theater and should have been discussed in private, if at all.

Fegler Doesn't Know Which One Is Which
It is at its worst now on the radio, where paid performers take advantage of their time to engage in pretentious feuds, all done in a mood of smug and lofty good-fellowship and advertise one another as great characters to the neglect of the public appetite in impersonal entertainment for its own sake. One comedian even made a momentary success by stealing material from others and naming and advertising the victim of his pilferage.

Entertainment in the theater, on the floor and on the air has become so intimate, so much an occasion for personal, professional boasting, log-rolling and sticky compliments or elaborately friendly insults that Olson and Johnson, being innocent of all this, have given the public an entire change of style, pace and scene.

So impersonal are these "corny hams" so intent on the show and indifferent to individual exploitation that I, who have known them both for years, still don't know which is Olson and which is the other guy.

Aldermen Order Plans Drawn for 3rd Street Paving

Launch Move for Civic Gathering; Vote for Primary March 14

The city council last night ordered plans and specifications prepared for paving of Third street, launched a move for a general meeting of civic leaders and politicians and unanimously voted to hold a primary election March 14.

The resolution to hold a primary election provided the only stumbling block of the evening. Alderman Vanderheyden objected to the primary because "it is unnecessary and a waste of the taxpayers' money."

Alderman Harriman, who submitted the resolution, maintained the theory of primary elections is right because it prevents a minority candidate from winning an election. He said a primary gives the people a change to choose between the two strongest candidates for a job.

Alderman DeLand supported the resolution and Alderman Franke said: "If we didn't provide for a primary election, it would leave us wide open for criticism. It looks like there will be a wild scramble for jobs in the spring and the incumbent would have an advantage without a primary."

Third Street Paving
The Third street paving issue was threshed out at council meetings and public hearings early last year and finally was shunted into an 8-mile paving program for which the council requested PWA aid.

Third street property owners were promised at that time that if the PWA refused help, the city would pave the street.

Alderman DeLand, chairman of the legislative committee, was instructed to organize a meeting of Appleton business men, civic leaders, assemblymen and senators from this area to discuss state legislation. The meeting probably will be held at Morgan school auditorium.

Alderman Harriman suggested that a number of small homes be built by the city for some of Appleton's relief clients who now are living in poorly equipped homes for which the city is paying high rents. He maintained the city would save money eventually and the construction of homes would provide work for the unemployed.

The suggestion was referred to the relief committee for investigation. Another suggestion, this one from August Laabs, came in a letter to the council. He suggested that the city erect a building in one of the parks to be used as a recreational center for old folks. The suggestion was referred to the recreational committee.

Grant Request
A request of the Thimothy Pulp and Paper company, Kaukauna, that the city improve the roadway and raise the sidewalk near the company's mill on John street was discussed in committee of the whole and then granted.

Pavement on E. John street and E. Fremont street were accepted by the council and the city clerk was ordered to pay the contractor in full. The payment will be $22,500, about $475 short of the original contract.

Four bids on covers for the digestion tanks at the sewage disposal plant were referred to the board of public works. Bids were offered by Gmeiner and Gresson, Hoepner and Sons, O. J. Boldt Construction company and Fluor Brothers company, Oshkosh.

A resolution allocating funds for the $11,029 PWA project at the sewage disposal plant was adopted and will be sent to the PWA regional offices at Chicago. The Hoffman Construction company, contractors at the plant, was given permission to pay wages by check.

The following licenses were granted: special club license, Oney Johnson Post of the American Legion; special beer license, Company D operators, Edward DeWall, 201 S. Walnut street; Carlton T. Pule, 417 W. Commercial street; Frank Schubert, route 2, Appleton; and Herman Schreier, 519 Manitowoc street, Menasha.

968 Million Asked in Budget Message for Farm Department

Washington, Jan. 5.—Congress was asked today to appropriate $968,150,000 for agriculture department activities including $533,000,000 in subsidies to farmers—for the next fiscal year.

This would be $338,170,000 less than the year's appropriations. President Roosevelt suggested in his budget message, however, that congress consider new taxes to meet any farm benefit payments in excess of the $533,000,000.

The president's recommendations included $485,000,000 for soil conservation payments and $48,000,000, the same as last year, for payments to sugar producers complying with the requirements of the sugar control act. For the current year, congress appropriated $60,000,000 for conservation payments.

Mercury Will Fall In Wake of Rains; 35 Degrees Today

Snow, Ice Melt in Damp Weather; Highways Slippery

Unseasonal rain swept down on Appleton and vicinity today, swiftly melting snow and ice, threatening an epidemic of colds, and causing apprehensions over street and highway conditions should freezing weather suddenly set in.

Those apprehensions are apparently well founded, for the Milwaukee weather bureau in its daily report predicted colder temperatures tonight, with a chance that this area will receive a snowfall.

Ice rinks sank into the soil, umbrellas shook off August wrinkles, and sheer silk stockings got splashed with dirty water from passing car wheels as Old Man Winter went just a bit daffy. The thermometer went crazy along with the rest of the weather, mounting to 35 degrees by 12:30 this afternoon.

The mercury hit a 24-hour high at 6 o'clock last evening when it climbed to 38 degrees, six above freezing and still higher than normal for this time of year.

The state highway commission said today that statewide rainfall had created hazardous traffic conditions, particularly in the northern part of the state, according to the Associated Press.

Roads are icy, the department said, north of a line from Eau Claire and Wausau to Green Bay. Southern roads, however, will be in good condition for driving following an expected drying period.

Catch Basins Flooded
Appleton street department crews, who started battling snow more than a week ago, switched their attack today to flooded catch basins as streets overflowed with rainwater. The rain had no elements of a storm in it; just a soft, steady fall, with almost no wind.

The city sewage plant reported that today's flow was at a rate of 32,000,000 gallons a day; two and a half million is a normal day's run. More than 100 cubic feet of cinders, carried from the city's streets into catch basins, have been screened off at the plant.

People talked of "June in January," made jocular remarks about the grass getting green again, and hoped ice and snow would disappear from streets and highways before Old Man Winter shoves the mercury down again.

The nation's weather map mirrored rapidly-changing conditions today which forecasters C. A. Donnel of Chicago said would bring freezing weather to the middle west tonight. The Associated Press reported.

Low Pressure Area
A large area of low barometric pressure and rain had moved northeastward from Kansas since yesterday. Its center early today was over southern Wisconsin.

Its effect was to produce rain over most of the eastern half of the nation, from the Mississippi valley to the Appalachian mountains. Donnel said the Atlantic coast would get rain today.

The weather was turning fair, however, in the wake of that movement, from extreme southern Illinois southward.

Temperatures between 40 and 60, far above normal, were common yesterday in the middle west but the mercury was falling today. As an example, Donnel said Chicago would have a low of about 32 tonight, compared with a high of 55 at 11 o'clock last night.

He predicted rain turning to snow tonight over Lake Michigan, in Indiana, upper and lower Michigan, and snow along Lake Superior in Minnesota and in eastern and northern Wisconsin. Fair weather was due in Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, southwestern Minnesota, eastern South Dakota, Nebraska and Kansas.

Donnel said the weather maps did not indicate severe cold or heavy precipitation in the north central states unless in local spots.

60 DAYS IN CAMP

Albert Mailey, Kaukauna, pleaded guilty of drunkenness when he appeared before Judge Thomas H. Ryan in municipal court this morning and was sentenced to serve 60 days in the county detention camp. Mailey was arrested by Kaukauna police.

The department activity sustaining the sharp cut was rural relief and rehabilitation under the farm security administration. The requests for this agency was $60,000,000, compared with $175,000,000 received for the current year.

The president explained, however, that his recommendations for rural relief might be changed later, when congress considers the general relief bill.

AGE, 80; MOVIE, HIS FIRST
George Schroeder, 813 W. Oklahoma street, is shown at the ticket window of the Elite theater yesterday afternoon as he was about to attend the matinee. The reason this picture is news is that the show which Mr. Schroeder saw yesterday was his first. He is 80 years old. (Post-Crescent Photo)

'Don't Know How They Do It,' Says Man, 80, of First Movie

Had spectators attending the movie in the Elite theater yesterday afternoon known the story behind the presence of a white-bearded, 80-year-old man sitting in one of the seats, they might have watched him more often than the screen. Those spectators can see a show the next day. But it isn't any day they can watch the reaction of a modern film has on a 80-year-old man who is seeing one for the first time in his life—and who has lived for many years right here in Appleton, within easy reach of a "flicker."

When George Schroeder, who lives at 813 W. Oklahoma street, went to see "Four Daughters" yesterday, it was his introduction to the marvels of the American sound movie, or to any movie for that matter. The aged man, who will be 81 years old March 15, just was never interested before.

But his son-in-law, Will Cotter, who has been living with him for about a year, finally persuaded him to attend and yesterday afternoon he sat, quite amazed, as sophisticated young ladies sang swing songs and the world's news was flashed dramatically across the screen in front of his eyes.

"I don't know how they do it," was his first remark when it was all over. "This modern pace is too fast for me."

But he was obviously pleased with his experience, and although yesterday's movie was his first, it isn't very likely that it will be his last.

5 More Men Seek Aldermanic Jobs; Total Reaches 17

Four Seeking Supervisory Posts; School Board Positions Open

The scramble for aldermanic posts in Appleton was given another push when five more candidates this morning took out petitions for nomination.

The new candidates bring the total seeking council jobs to 17 while four men are circulating papers to represent the city on the county board.

The city council last night after some opposition from Alderman Vanderheyden, unanimously voted to hold a primary election on March 14. Voters will name 18 aldermen, nine for one year and nine for two years, and 18 supervisors. The terms of three school board members, Seymour Gmeiner, C. K. Boyer and Dr. G. T. Hegner, also will end this spring.

Henry Wichmann, 407 N. State street, took out papers for the Eighth ward aldermanic post and so far is unopposed. The ward will be formed from a part of the Fifth ward. Gustave Keller, now representing the Third ward, will seek nomination in the new Ninth ward.

Thirteenth Ward
Edward G. Gust, 812 S. Kernan avenue, took out papers for the position of alderman from the Thirteenth ward, which will be formed from a part of the Fourth ward. Alderman Brautigam now is representing that area.

Roy C. Beson, 1017 W. Eighth street, will seek the nomination for the aldermanic job in the Eighteenth ward, now a part of the Third ward. Dwayne H. Larson, 1023 W. Summer street, took out papers for nomination to the Sixteenth ward aldermanic position. The Sixteenth ward now is a part of the Fifth ward.

Candidates may secure nomination papers from City Clerk Carl J. Becher in city hall and must file them by Feb. 22, the deadline for filing petitions. The regular spring election will be held April 4.

Bank Commission Adjourns Inquiry In Fidelity Case

Counsel Given Time to Study Concern's 1937 Audit

Madison, Jan. 5.—The state banking commission adjourned its inquiry into the business practices of the Fidelity Investment Association of Wheeling, W. Va., yesterday to allow commission counsel to study the company's 1937 audit and make a further investigation.

Probe of the company was launched following the filing of a complaint against it by the federal securities and exchange commission in the Detroit federal court. The Wisconsin commission claimed company salesmen "omitted material facts" pertaining to cash surrender values and withdrawal privileges while negotiating sales.

Company counsel contended that full explanations of all provisions on the retirement contracts were made, and if they were omitted, it was because purchasers were not interested or did not care for complete details.

Licenses at Stake
The investigation was started in order to assist the commission in determining whether the firm's and the salesmen's licenses should be revoked or continued.

Leo E. Vandercil, attorney for the commission, asked the delay after Robert Rieser, company counsel, had examined three company salesmen.

Although he agreed to an adjournment, Rieser claimed the delay was "an attempt to capitalize on the fears of the contract holders."

He urged the commission to issue a statement giving some assurance to investors "to keep them from becoming panicky," because "they deserved that consideration."

He also asked the commission for an early decision on the status of the firm's salesmen, whose 1939 licenses have not been issued. The company's license runs until next July, the salesmen's permits expired Dec. 31, 1938.

Municipal court fines, fees and costs amounted to $1,050.75 in December, almost double the amount for November, according to a report compiled by William R. Kreiss, municipal court reporter, for Judge Thomas H. Ryan. The November collections totaled $581.60.

State fines in December amounted to $210, city fines $154, county fines $285, court costs $214.65, officers' fees $27.55, fees to city $415, receipts in civil actions $28 and miscellaneous $117.40.

Charges in the 36 state actions included drunken driving 4, reckless driving 4, drunkenness 8, game law violation 2, operating with overload 2, vagrancy 3, lewd and lascivious conduct 1, selling mislabeled property 1, driving after revocation of license 1, resisting officer 1, larceny 2, failure to have painter's license 1, transporting trees without a license 1, petty larceny 1, failure to stop after accident 1 and insufficient lights 1.

It Is Said--

That one of the candidates for an aldermanic post in Appleton said yesterday if he is elected he will introduce a resolution to charge admission to council meetings. He maintained that with 18 aldermen, it ought to be one of the best shows in town.

That about 2,000 transients have been living lodging at the county jail since the cold weather set in last fall. From 15 to 30 knights of the road are given lodging each night. When the cells are filled the men sleep on newspapers placed on the concrete floor.

That passenger business on Appleton's railroads should get a strong stimulus from the wet, raw weather that has engulfed the state. Railroad officials said yesterday that the passenger business has been down this winter, because good weather made driving conditions better than usual. The soaked, icy highways and heavy mists about this week should bring an upturn.

That Alderman Grignon had a difficult time registering his vote on various issues at last night's council meeting. He had a bad cold and couldn't talk above a whisper. Someone suggested Alderman Grignon be given a bell so he could vote out loud.

Overheated Furnace Starts School Fire

Hortonville.—Damage estimated at about $200 or $300 was caused by a fire at the Elm Tree school town of Greenville, about 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. The fire, said to have resulted from an overheated furnace, burned through the floor in a corner of the basement and spread to the attic before the Hortonville fire department extinguished it. No one was at the school at the time.

Should Have Bid No Trump To Deny Help

BY ELY CULBERTSON

I was delighted with the answers to question 30 of the recent examination. The question and answer were:

At rubber bridge, you are West, declarer at a three no trump contract. Opponents made no bid. North leads the spade six. Your hand and dummy are:

West (declarer)	Dummy
♠ Q 8 4	♠ A 7 5 3
♥ K 6	♥ Q 5 4
♦ A K 9 6 3 2	♦ 7 6 5 2
♣ K 4	♣ 9 7 6 5 2

What card do you lead from dummy after winning with the spade ace? Give short reason for your play.

Answer: At trick two, you must lead the diamond QUEEN from dummy. If diamonds are split as 3 to 1, the suit is solid for six tricks and you have three sure tricks in spades and hearts. If all four diamonds are in North's hand, it does not matter how you play the suit—you must lose one trick. But if all four diamonds are in South's hand, you can locate them and pick them up by leading the diamond queen. (No demerit for leading low diamond; 15 points CREDIT for leading diamond queen, with the right reason.)

The particular safety play involved in this question was identical with one in last year's examination. This, of course, was deliberate on my part, my object being to find out whether the average player really absorbs knowledge from these examinations. It was gratifying to find that he does, and I thoroughly enjoyed assigning credits to almost 16,000 examinations.

TODAY'S HAND
Dear Mr. Culbertson: Nebraska is the white spot of the nation and we are very proud of the fact. Also, it has three state mental hospitals and they are crowded beyond capacity. I am wondering if the great national indoor sport, bridge, is in any way responsible for the latter condition. The other members of one of the numerous bridge clubs of this town are trying to get East and West (in the following hand) committed to one of the aforesaid institutions.

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH	EAST
♠ 10 4	♠ 7 6 3 2
♥ 10 9	♥ Q 8 6
♦ A K J	♦ 8 7 5 4
♣ A K Q 4 3 2	♣ 9 8

WEST	EAST
♠ 10 9	♠ 7 6 3 2
♥ 10 9	♥ Q 8 6
♦ A K J	♦ 8 7 5 4
♣ A K Q 4 3 2	♣ 9 8

The bidding:
South West North East
Pass 2 clubs Pass 2 no trumps
Pass 3 clubs Pass 3 diamonds
Pass 4 clubs Pass 5 clubs
(Final bid)

"Please advise us which one, East or West, should be placed in the violent ward."
NEBRASKA.

If bridge players were committed for bidding of this nature, Nebraska wouldn't be the only state with overcrowded asylum conditions. I grant that East and West did not bid perfectly, but I have seen far worse bidding in my time. West's opening bid was, of course, correct, and so was East's response. West's three clubs was equally correct, but East went astray when he bid three diamonds. He had nothing resembling a diamond suit, and such a bid would be sure to mislead West. Since the forcing nature of West's opening bid precluded a pass on East's part, the only logical solution was to rebid the no trump, thus denying any suit strength. Had East made this bid (three no trump), West's proper course would have been to pass. As a matter of fact, three no trump was a perfectly legitimate contract that depended only on reasonable luck. If the club suit had broken, and if the opponents' hearts had been divided four and four, or if the heart jack had been in North's hand instead of in South's, at least nine tricks would have been a lay-down. Five clubs was a bad contract because, in addition to getting a club break, West would have to lose a diamond trick even if the king were on side, since he never would be able to enter the East hand for a finesse. Since three no trump could not have been made, however, due to the position of the cards, East-West did not lose very much on their failure to arrive at the correct three no trump contract.

TOMORROW'S HAND
West, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

NORTH	EAST
♠ K 7 3 2	♠ A 8 5
♥ A 8 3	♥ 7 4 3 2
♦ A 8 3	♦ 7 4 3 2
♣ A 8 3	♣ 7 4 3 2

WEST	EAST
♠ A 9 6	♠ Q 8 4
♥ Q 10 5 2	♥ 7 8 6
♦ 7 4	♦ 10 9 6
♣ 8 5 5	♣ Q 10

Mr. Culbertson will discuss this hand in tomorrow's column.

Teachers Should Consult Parents Only in Emergency

BY ANGELO PATRI

"What? No homework? Bring your mother to school. I want to see her. You take this note home at noon and don't come back until she comes with you. I've had about enough of this."

The exasperated teacher has reached the limits of patience, or of resource, so mother must come. The teacher feels outraged. Somebody else must feel inconvenienced and be made to suffer. In some way not quite clear to the teacher, this will relieve her and make things come out right. After all this troublesome child does not belong to her. He does belong to his parents, and it is only right they should know what a lazy, good-for-nothing, disobedient child he is. Mother must come.

But the teacher has stopped at the door of the classroom. She has not looked beyond it to get a glimpse of how this looks to mother. Maybe there are small children at home. Maybe it is washday. Or perhaps one of the children is sick, or grandmother is in bed with a bad spell. Perhaps mother goes out to work.

Of one thing we may be sure. Mother has her own share of suffering for the sins of her children. She knows that this boy is not doing well. She has tried to get him to do better. The teacher will have no news for her, only added grief. What can mother do with the boy in school? The teacher is in charge of him there, and can do with him what his mother cannot do at a distance. All that is accomplished by this demand visit is an added weight on the mother's mind, a little more anxiety, a little more worry. She cannot make him want to do his homework. That is plainly the teacher's work.

When mother gives the child a place for work and time and encouragement she has done about all she can do to get the child to do his homework. If she sits down and does it, or pushes his hand with her will into making the marks on the paper, that homework is not doing the child any good. His mother is doing it, not he. He must want to do it, must do it under his own power if it is to help him. The teacher must in some way, known only to herself, as a teacher, get him to want to do his work.

Sending for mother or father for little breaches of school discipline weakens the teacher. She should conduct her class so that the children look to her for leadership and learn on her authority. Every time she calls in outside authority she gives up her place and loses her hold on the pupil.

If it becomes necessary to send home a special report, or to ask for cooperation on some scheme of work or discipline, a note through the mails will do nicely. The special delivery letter and the telegram are not to be used. Imagine getting a special delivery letter at two in the morning to inform a parent that his child is failing behind in his English. Father's English is likely to be damaged right then, and the teacher's standing in that house, lost beyond recovery.

Maybe the teacher, upon reflection, could manage the whole affair by herself. Emergencies are rare.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of the paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

Roaming Man Seeks Some Charm That His Wife Lacks

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—Can a man be in love with two different women at the same time? That is the state my husband claims to be in. We have been very happily married for three years, but now he has fallen in love with a girl 17 years old. He says this love in no way affects his love for me; that he still loves me as much as the day we were married, but that he loves her every bit as much as he loves me, although he realizes that I am superior to her. This affair with the girl has been going on for more than a year and he still hasn't been able to make up his mind which of us he cares the most for. If I thought that the girl really loved him and that he preferred her, I would not stand in their way, but I cannot be sure. I think a girl as young as she doesn't know the real meaning of love. In spite of it all, I still love my husband and am willing to do all I can to further his happiness. Am I a fool or not?

A READER.

Answer: It certainly betrays no lack of intelligence for you not to be able to gauge your husband's ability to love. Even the Bible sets down the way of a man with a maid as one of the insoluble mysteries of life. Probably no son of Adam understands it himself, or has any idea about why, or for what reason, a woman captures his fancy, or how many he can love at the same time.

Of course, there are some men who are one-woman men. They give all the affection that they have to one individual woman. She satisfies their every need and desire, and they wish for no other. Their hearts may be likened to a one-room apartment. But the hearts of the great majority of men are like a hotel for transients, with always room for a new comer.

They have many fleeting fancies. They desire many diverse charms and virtues in a woman. And so no one woman can completely satisfy them. No doubt it is out of this characteristic of men that polygamy grew, for it gave a husband the opportunity to gratify his many tastes in wives. He could love a young wife for her youth and spirited ways and an older one for her age and tolerance. Another for her beauty. Another for her wit. Another for her music. Another for her skill in cooking.

Evidently the modern man still retains his polygamous taste, but the trouble comes in when he expects one wife to pinch-hit for twenty and to have all the conflicting attributes that twenty women possess. It can't be done. But what sets most men roaming is the search for some charm that their wives lack. It isn't that the husbands have fallen out of love with their wives, or that they don't admire them and respect them. It is just that some woman with a different line of attractions has come along and caught their roving eyes.

Of course, the man of many loves loves lightly. He is incapable of a deep, passionate attachment, but he is as he was made and his wife has to take him that way, or leave him. And if she has the patience and the grit and thinks he is worth while waiting for, in the end he always comes back to her.

So if you really love your husband, just play the waiting game. Quit arguing with your husband about which he loves best, for that forces him to think up reasons why he should prefer the girl. Just let the matter lie. He will get tired of playing around with a girl who is little more than a child, or she will weary of him and see the folly of wasting herself on a married man, and the affair will just peter out.

In every contest between the wife and the "other woman" the odds are in the wife's favor because she has law and society and property considerations on her side, as well as the habit of affection and the something about a wife that makes her looking at the fixtures and floor space but more on measuring the consumer habits of the neighborhood.

In past generations people rented restaurants or showroom space by looking at the attractive quarters which the real estate men showed them.

Today we advocate an analysis of the motor and pedestrian traffic. An apparently trivial thing like the car versus the west side of the street may spell the difference between bankruptcy or success.

Sound Business Psychology
Modern business is one field of applied psychology. No longer can we stumble along by "rule of thumb" methods. This is a scientific age.

If you wish to rent a business property, don't limit your investigation to a matter of the rental charge per square foot of floor space. Don't be tempted solely by glittering fixtures.

Find out how many competing businesses are in the same neighborhood. If you are operating a restaurant, you must estimate the normal inroads that your competitors will make on the total potential restaurant trade.

What sort of trade frequents your neighborhood? Is it a lunch-con business with most of the people going home at night for their evening meal? Is there much breakfast trade? How about Saturday and the holidays?

Are you on the popular side of the street? If not, are you getting a sufficient reduction in rent to offset the difference? If you are considering a second floor location, are you certain that the reduction in rent will not be more than offset by the extra advertising you must sponsor in order to pull customers upstairs?

Business Is Now a Science
One reason why the chain stores are flourishing is the fact that they operate on a scientific basis. They can estimate very accurately what their gross volume of business will amount to in any given site.

They don't rent property aimlessly.

Dear Dorothy Dix—Before we were married I insisted on a long engagement to be sure that my fiancé and I would be well matched. He seemed to like all the things that I did and vice versa, but now he likes just the opposite. I am fond of good literature. He reads only the sports page and cartoons. I like peace and he likes to argue. I intend to stand by my contract, but would like to have things more congenial between us. Can you give me any advice on the subject?

DOROTHY DIX

DISAPPOINTED.

Answer: None that will be palatable, or that you will be likely to take. It is a bitter pill for a wife to have to swallow to be told that the leopard is just as likely to change its spots as a husband is his ways. If there is any adapting done, it is she who must do it.

So I am afraid that if you wish to carry on a conversation with your husband about what's in the paper, you will have to study up on baseball and football and know who's who in them. You will never get him to bone up on the best sellers so as to be an entertaining companion to you. If you want to laugh with him, you will have to develop a taste for the comic strip. Believe me, they are an adhesive plaster that hold many a family together.

It is too bad that men always put their best foot forward when they go a-courting and that thereby they deprive a girl of any chance of guessing what sort of husbands they will make when they get their good clothes and their good manners off and settle down to everyday life. But it is a rule of nature. Even the birds shed their fine feathers once they have selected a mate.

Dear Miss Dix—My fiancé and I are very much in love and anxious to be married, but he has a widowed mother and an invalid sister dependent on him. He has a salary of $50 a week. Could we maintain a separate establishment and still support them on that amount of money? I have a job, but he insists that I give it up when we marry.

MODERN PORTIA.

Answer: I don't see how it would be possible to maintain two homes and feed and clothe four people on $50 a week. You will have to keep on with your job if you marry. And why not? It is better than breaking your heart in hopeless waiting.

They don't rent property aimlessly.

Dear Dorothy Dix—Before we were married I insisted on a long engagement to be sure that my fiancé and I would be well matched. He seemed to like all the things that I did and vice versa, but now he likes just the opposite. I am fond of good literature. He reads only the sports page and cartoons. I like peace and he likes to argue. I intend to stand by my contract, but would like to have things more congenial between us. Can you give me any advice on the subject?

Answer: None that will be palatable, or that you will be likely to take. It is a bitter pill for a wife to have to swallow to be told that the leopard is just as likely to change its spots as a husband is his ways. If there is any adapting done, it is she who must do it.

So I am afraid that if you wish to carry on a conversation with your husband about what's in the paper, you will have to study up on baseball and football and know who's who in them. You will never get him to bone up on the best sellers so as to be an entertaining companion to you. If you want to laugh with him, you will have to develop a taste for the comic strip. Believe me, they are an adhesive plaster that hold many a family together.

It is too bad that men always put their best foot forward when they go a-courting and that thereby they deprive a girl of any chance of guessing what sort of husbands they will make when they get their good clothes and their good manners off and settle down to everyday life. But it is a rule of nature. Even the birds shed their fine feathers once they have selected a mate.

Dear Miss Dix—My fiancé and I are very much in love and anxious to be married, but he has a widowed mother and an invalid sister dependent on him. He has a salary of $50 a week. Could we maintain a separate establishment and still support them on that amount of money? I have a job, but he insists that I give it up when we marry.

Beauty and You

—by PATRICIA LINDSAY

You know I advocate "self-service" training for children so they may grow up self-assured and self-reliant. But there is the danger of neglecting the wee tots once they have shown their willingness to dress themselves and bathe themselves. This should not be.

As one leading skin specialist put it: "For the first few years of a child's life a mother devotes endless time and energy to bathing, oiling, and powdering the child's skin. Then when the child is old enough he or she is presented with a cake of soap and a wash cloth and told to bathe themselves. That bathing is usually a slipshod procedure unless the mother keeps an eagle eye on the youngster." And slipshod washings lead to skin disaster!

"Cat-Washing" Technique
During the busy hours of mother's busy day, her young child may be allowed to wash hands and face without parental direction. But in the morning or evening when mother or nurse has more time, the child should be taught how to wash his skin thoroughly, and how to rinse it clear of suds.

A little stool on which a child might climb to a convenient height, to reach the faucets and washbasin, is a great help. So is mother's choice of a bland soap of good quality and a fresh face cloth each day, if that is feasible.

Teach your youngster to draw warm water, not hot and to soap the saturated facecloth well. Then show him how face and neck and ears must all be washed, and not just around the mouth which is known as the "cat wash."

Rinsings are important, and from the age of six the child can be shown how to duck her face into the water and rinse it thoroughly with her hands until the skin squeaks! For a residue of soap left on youthful skin is far from wise if you want the skin to be clear and healthy when the child is mature.

Tub Bathing
Where it is possible to have the child jump into a tub of soapy water once a day, your problem is simplified. For by wearing a bathing cap to cover the hair, the child can splash and scrub to heart's content, and it will not take long before he learns the technique of good bathing!

These simple suggestions are given to you because youthful skin must be kept very clean to avoid local infections. Their tiny active hands and bodies pick up many germs and carry them to their faces and ears. In this manner many blemishes occur. So a daily, thorough washing with clean cloth, is a necessity for skin beauty and health as well.

During chilly weather you might find it advisable to massage your child, the body over, with a bit of pure mineral oil or castor oil as frequent bathings and cold weather rob their skins of natural oil which is a protection.

My leaflet "Beauty at Small Cost" gives several inexpensive beauty suggestions for children and adults. If you wish it write me care of this paper and enclose a self-addressed stamped (3-cent) envelope.

understand why hotel service has to differ in some respects from that of correct formal service in a private house. (b) Tapping on the glass is about the best thing you can do. Snapping the fingers, or clapping the hands, are both considered improper and unnecessary. But both undoubtedly attract the attention of people at other tables much more than tapping a glass, and therefore this last is probably best. Of course, if a waiter is standing anywhere near you, you say "Waiter." If he is not your own waiter, you ask him to find your own for you.

When You Leave a Party Early
Dear Mrs. Post: I had a big party some weeks ago. There were fifty guests and the occasion was my husband's birthday. Before ten o'clock, one of our best friends came to me and explained that she felt very ill and that she and her husband would have to be excused, and she hoped it would be all right. I was sorry to have them go so unexpectedly, but of course it was all right. I did ask her, however, to go very quietly and to say nothing to the others or they too might feel that the party was over.

She had made no comment about the request at the time, but the other day she told me she thought it was very rude of me. She also thinks that it must have placed them in the wrong in the eyes of the others who later discovered that they had gone home without saying good night. What I would like to know is, did I insult her and wasn't it better for them to leave quietly without disturbing the whole party?

Answer: You are entirely right. Going around and saying good night to everybody would certainly have broken up the party. Moreover, it is one of the most elemental and long established rules of etiquette that when any one, for any reason, leaves anywhere unexpectedly, they do so as unobtrusively as possible.

Chapter 37
ADAM EXPLAINS
"Shaw," Adam went on "Barney took the part of a girl in Hundreth Night shows—did he?"

"Yeah, he was a scream—big as a horse and coy, and a shrill falsetto voice—" The grin froze on his face. "Great Godfrey, he breathed."

"The same sort of neighborly illusion it's easy enough to mimic a monotone. And there had to be a second bullet in case the fatal one did not lodge in the wound."

"You see, he thought she was dead—he meant her to be dead—when he carried her onto the dance floor."

Mary Shaw hid her face against her husband's shoulder and began to sob. He put a perfunctory arm around her, spoke to her impatiently.

"I always told you Barney had ice water in his veins. . . But look, Adam, you mean to say he carried her around the floor? Why, man, I had a girl pass out on me once when we were dancing—weighed a ton. I could hardly get her to a chair. They're not like ordinary people—stiffs. I mean, they—they say."

Adam said, "True. But I doubt if Barney realized that when he made his plans. She's a tiny thing, and Barney—I'm not weakling, but I assure you I was helpless yesterday afternoon in his arms. I think it's possible he underestimated the task he had set himself; but once started, had to do it—there was no backing down after he'd shot her. He

OSCAR Strutz was "in the groove" during Industrial league matches at Arcade alleys last night and registered a 720 series for a new season high in the city. The high count tops Everett Wegner's 719 which also was collected in Industrial league bowling. Both Strutz and Wegner are scratch bowlers.

Strutz smashed a 289 game when he started out with a spare and then pounded 10 straight strikes, getting nine pins on his last extra ball. His game count knos Chet Merkle of the Tuttle Press who hit 276 plus a handicap of 13 pins previously this season. Strutz paced Johnson Shoe Builders to a high team series of 2,910 last night.

Post-Crescent keglers let out a little last night and gave Power Company bowlers a sample of what they can expect when they meet in a special grudge match at 7 o'clock Sunday evening at Arcade alleys. The newspaper boys hammered a high team game of 1,065 but remain nestled in last place after losing two games to Atlas Embossers.

Fox Rivers Lead
Fox Rivers stayed in first place with a 2-game win over Appleton Coated Paper company. Everett Wegner wallpiped a 205 game and 565 series for the winners while Lloyd Schroeder steamed a 205 game and 546 triple for the Coated quint.

Strutz started out with a 185, topped a 236 and then crashed his big 289 as Johnson Shoe. Rebuilders downed Wadhams Oils in two games. D. Strutz bolstered the winners with a 254 game and Les-selyoung rattled 221. Freddie Yelz sizzled a 623 series on games of 234 and 207 and Joe Reynbeau counted 201 and 207 for the losers.

Richard Nabefeld whipped a 222 game and a 596 series and Orson Kranzsch battered a 203 game as Atlas Embossers won the odd one from Post-Crescent. Plenty of power was exhibited by the newspaper quint in its high game when Frank Rothrock sizzled 201, Dick Wenz 207, Edie Sternard hit 192, D. Davis was the fifth member of the team. Weiss counted a 210 with his 211 and ended up with a 591 total. Sakalaris is "Hot".

Lloyd Fumal punched a 526 series as Power Company pinsters won two from Tuttle Press. Mike Sakalari. Power anchor man, started off with a 200 game but ran into some sideline interference and finished with a rosy 463. Wilmer Plamann speared 550 for the losing five.

Al's Bar grand slammed Plank Dandy Rollers as Marine speared 224 and Roy McCallum scored 547. Clem Kitzinger topped the losers with a 209 single and 564 triple.

Atlas Printers won two games from Appleton Machines as Arnold Meyer blasted games of 215 and 201 for a 607 series and J. Zapp counted 205. Clarence Horn tallied 210 and 546 for the losers.

Two games were credited to Schlafers Supply Co. in a tilt with Pond Sports. Wally Wunderlich spearheaded the Schlafers attack with a 532 total while Myrion Seims steamed a 213 game and 529 series for the losing team.

Woolen Mills picked up two games from Montgomery Ward as Ray Crane slayed games of 213 and 201 for a 601 total. Lee Barlament cracked 224 and E. Herb grooved 205 and 213. Joe Herman topped the losers with games of 222 and 202 for a 580 series.

TONIGHT'S GAMES
7:30—Elm Trees versus Lutz Ice.
8:30 — Y.M.C.A. versus Wire Works.
9:30 — Town Taxic versus Merchants.

Basketball teams in the Y.M.C.A. City league will start the second third of their schedule tonight with three games.

The Elm Tree Bakers, out in front with five games and no defeats, will figure in the opening game at 7:30 with the Lutz Ice company as the opponent. The Ice men are in last place with one win, a forfeit.

In the second game, the Y.M.C.A., rated a good club on paper but winner in only one game to date, will clash with the Wire Works. The Wires have two wins and three defeats. If the Wires show Ken Slattery tonight they'll probably be picked to win. Otherwise the Y is the favorite.

The final game, at 9:30, will bring together the up and coming Merchants and the Town Taxic. The Taxic have been having only fair success to date considering their lineup. The Merchants, however, have been doing well and have three wins against two defeats.

Matt McGrath, 63, Will Seek Olympic Honors

New York — Matt McGrath, the weight thrower who won 21 national championships and competed in two Olympics, will try for the 1940 Olympic team—after he has been retired. Sixty-three this year he will be automatically retired from the police department in which he is an inspector.

Said Matt: "I think I can earn a place on that Olympic team for I'll have lots of time to practice."

CHICAGO — Dizzy Dean, never known as a master of understatement, told a breathless baseball world today his extensive right arm, lame most of last season, was again and that he would win 20 games for the Chicago Cubs this season.

He didn't even wait for the report of Doctor Sumner Koch, noted surgeon who X-rayed the arm for which the Cubs paid $185,000 in 1932.

"I know my arm is okay again," Dean said, "because I took a peek at those X-ray things yesterday before they were dry and of Dizzy has been X-rayed so often he's an expert."

COLUMBUS, O., (AP)—The 1938 National Professional football campaign was the most successful in the league's history, from the standpoints of artistry, attendance and spectacular play, and I am looking forward to an even better season in 1939.

Climaxed by the "storybook" game in which the New York Giants defeated the Green Bay Packers to take the championship, the season presented practically everything ever witnessed on a gridiron.

The fans, responding to the hard fought and spectacular play, thronged the parks in such numbers that the attendance was more than 1,100,000—an increase of 15 per cent over 1937. The championship was witnessed by 48,120—a new single game high mark for the playoff.

Little Chute — St. John high cagers will swing into conference action Friday night when they trek to Oshkosh to meet St. Mary cagers. Coaches Miron and Bongers have been drilling their squad over the holidays and intend to keep the conference lead if possible. So far St. John cagers have defeated every team in the circuit.

In Friday night's preliminary at Oshkosh, St. John's Holy Name No. 2 of Little Chute will meet the C.Y.O. team of St. Mary. In their first meeting, the Chuter cagers eked out a close win. Nic. Jansen came through with a bucket in the final seconds to break a tie.

John Henry Lewis Wants Only 50-50 Chance to Beat Champ

NEW YORK (AP)—Large Gus Greenlee, the Pittsburgh citizen who manages the affairs of John Henry Lewis, the fighter, dropped in to warn your correspondent not to be too sure John Henry will get his ears batted down by Joe Louis, the champion, when they meet in their 15-rounder at the Garden Jan. 25.

"There's a lot of fellows making a mistake about this fight," said Greenlee, confidentially, as he sat down and overflowed the largest chair in the room. "How do you feel about it? Do you think my boy's going to get licked easy?"

Your correspondent told him that, since picking Ellsworth Vinson to beat Donald Budz, in tennis the other night, he had decided to do a

PIONEERS "JUGGED"
Coach John Breen of Carroll almost didn't have all of his basketball team for last night's game with Lawrence. The Pioneers made the trip in several cars and one lost its way outside of Necnah and went through the Twin Cities instead of taking the belt line. In Menasha it was involved in an accident with a truck and the driver and players were taken to the Menasha police station. They put in an S.O.S. for Coach Breen who rescued them in time to get them to Appleton for the pre-game meal.

Dean Lawrence, high scoring forward with the Pioneers, did not accompany the team yesterday. He pulled a muscle in a recent practice and whether he'll play any more this season is a question.

ONE of the two undefeated leaders in the Western division of the Little Nine conference will be among the also rans after Friday night's games in the circuit, for the feature contest of the week will have Winneconne at Hortonville. Both have won three and lost none in conference play. The outcome is rated a tossup.

Wrightstown crosses Outagamie county to take on Shiocton at the latter place. Wrightstown hasn't won a decision and the edge therefore goes to Shiocton which has two wins against a single setback.

The other divisional game was supposed to be Bear Creek at Freedom but it already has been played. The score was 20 to 19 for Bear Creek.

The Eastern division leaders appear sure to remain leaders. Kimberly will be at home to Brilliant and should come through with a win. The Papermakers have kept in shape through the holidays and last week dropped an overtime verdict to Appleton Bees.

Denmark will be at home to Hilbert and should hang up its fourth win. Hilbert has yet to taste victory. In the other Eastern division game, Reedsville goes up to Seymour. Seymour should cop after a slow start occasioned by games with the two undefeated teams.

ROD REVIVALS
By O. Warren Smith

WHEN these long winter evenings hang heavily on the hands of the fisherman, it is time to get the tackle in order for another angling season. After the hard usage it has received, the average bamboo rod will need some renovating. Chances are that the varnish has been cracked in places and that the windings have become frayed. Dull evenings can be brightened by putting the rod in shape.

Some rods will be in such condition as to need a thorough sanding and rubbing to make them ready for rewinding and varnishing. Rough and cracked varnish should be removed as the first step in reviving the rod. Then the frayed or missing winding should be replaced. A well wound rod should be much better action than one not properly wound even though the purpose of the winding is not to hold the rod together as some persons think.

Say It with Silk

The proper silk for winding can be obtained in any good tackle store. To start the winding, the end of the silk should be laid lengthwise of the rod and wound under. When half the needed length is wound, a separate piece of silk is placed lengthwise of the rod with the two ends projecting over the winding already in place. The loop is then wound under to the required length, the silk is held taut and broken, the end pulled through and under the winding, by drawing on the protruding ends of the loop. Next, the winding should be pressed tightly together and the slack taken up by drawing upon the ends of the thread. Finally, the ends should be cut off, close up to the winding, taking care not to disturb the winding in order to have a neat job.

Revarnishing the rod after the winding is not a difficult task but should be done only with the best of materials. A little extra expense in buying the best varnish will pay well in giving longer life to the finish. After the rod has been sanded and rubbed — if those operations are necessary, and they usually are — the rod should be varnished in a warm, dustless place. The varnish itself should be warmed slightly so that it will spread on easily. The varnish should be warm, not hot.

Beginning at the top of each joint, the varnish should be spread on with a good paint brush. Particular care should be used to avoid getting varnish on the guides where it may cake and wear the line in casting. Take plenty of time to do the job smoothly and assemble the rod. Then hang it in a corner where it will not be reached by dust. A weight placed on the butt of the rod will keep it from warping and will help in taking out any set which may have developed during the fishing season. You'll never know the old rod when you have finished doing it up, and it will be ready for more good service.

FRIDAY'S GAMES
Clintonville at Neenah.
West De Pere at Menasha.
New London at Kaukauna.

KAUKAUNA — Kaukauna High school cagers will strive to rise above the 500 mark Friday evening when New London comes here for a conference match. The game will begin at 8 o'clock, with a preliminary tilt between the B teams slated for 7 o'clock. Kaukauna has won and lost two conference games, beating West De Pere and Menasha and losing to Neenah and Shawano.

New London is holding down third place in the loop, with Kaukauna in fourth. If the Kaws win they'll take over third. The Bulls have won three games and lost two.

The visitors' offense is built around Doug Hoier, lanky forward, with Stew Hammerberg, a stand-out on defense from his guard position. Kaukauna fans are well acquainted with these two, who led New London to district honors in the Class B tournament here last March. The rest of the New London lineup will have Ross at forward, W. Hammerberg at center and Melklejohn at guard.

Work on Offense

Coch Paul E. Little has been working his cagers mostly on offense since the Shawano game, attempting to develop a more aggressive style of play. The Kaws haven't been getting as many shots as their opponents, although their accuracy percentage is practically as good.

Kaukauna hasn't played since Dec. 20, and will probably show the effect of the long layoff. New London has gone into the circuit for the first time, with a game at Oshkosh and West Green Bay during the holidays, losing a close game to the former and trouncing the latter.

Little will start his regular five, Carl Giordana and Junior Swedberg at guard, Bill Alger at center and Joe Bloch and Don Biseck at forward. These five men have scored 102 of Kaukauna's 109 points this year. In only one of the five games played this season has any other player broken into the score book.

STACY WORKS RESERVES

New London — The New London High school basketball floor will remain deserted the next two weeks while the Red and White journeys out of town for conference and non-conference games.

Tomorrow night the Stacymen will tackle Kaukauna there in what, on past records, promises to be a pitched battle. On Jan. 13 they will play a non-league tilt at St. Mary, Menasha. The next home game will bring Clintonville her. Jan. 20.

Coch D. N. Stacy has been drilling the boys hard this week after a short holiday lull. Two reserves have been getting in extra work. Gordon Melklejohn, starting guard, is suffering with a leg injury and Harold Futs, promising sophomore, has been working in his place. Ken Ross, who shows a remarkable eye at times, has been getting extra practice in shooting to relieve Ken Braut, a regular forward who works better on defense.

The B squad will travel along to Kaukauna as the first of his three assistants.

MENASHA — Team wrestling again stole the show at S. A. C. C. armory Wednesday night with Speedy Frank and Joe Dorsetti combining their efforts to take four of six rounds from Stan Pesek and Louis Kodrick. Although the fans were yelling for their scalps, Joe and Speedy just were too tough for their opponents.

Speedy and Joe worked under the old adage, He who fights and runs away, lives to fight another day. Whenever the going got too tough, they headed for the outside of the ring. The first round ended in a draw. When Stan was in trouble, Kodrick placed his foot under his partner's shoulder so he couldn't be downed. The grapplers changed partners freely in the milling.

Big Pileup

Speedy again took care of Pesek to win the fourth round after a few preliminary blows. Joe jumped on Pesek when the Polish lad was lying on the floor after the round was over and for a moment the action was more chaotic than during the bout while Dutch Imhoff attempted to keep the grapplers apart.

Pesek was tossed out of the ring in the fifth round. When he tried to crawl back, Speedy kicked him out once more. Speedy and Joe ganged up on Louis and battered him around but got too near the ropes. Pesek reached over from the outside, clubbed Dorsetti with a right hand and then went after Speedy. Speedy was downed in short order while Kodrick kept Dorsetti busy.

Fan Start Chant

Frank and Dorsetti protested the fact because Pesek was outside of the ring. They walked out and the fans started to chant, "We want our money back." The referee left the ring too in an attempt to get the grapplers back. They finally returned.

TRUCKS AT NEENAH

Clintonville — School hasn't reopened for the new year but Coach Swede Johnson has been drilling his Clintonville high basketball quintet for its 1939 debut at Neenah Friday night.

While the games will be more or less of a breather for the Red Rockets, the Clinton's turn is bound to come sooner or later. For a while in their last game of 1938 against West De Pere the locals looked as though their time had. But West rallied and came through to win 15 to 10.

The Red Rockets have practically the same team as a year ago with lanky Jack Hesselman and Warren Kettering being the two danger men. Both are "dead-eye-dicks" and neither shows any mercy for the Clinton's. In encounters with the Clintonville last year they ran up heavy totals. Neenah has its eye on the conference championship this year and so far has fallen by the wayside only against Shawano.

The lineup which the Clinton's probably will start will see Herby Huffman and Rich Ramsdell at forwards, Jack Martin and Florian Goerlinger at the guards and Lyle Roloff at the pivot spot.

NEW YORK — Sorry to report Colonel Rupert, long ill, is not doing so well. . . . Halfway through the Vines-Budge tennis match, Tony Galento demanded "When does the fight start?" . . . Plans are afoot to enlarge the Orange bowl. . . . Best news the Giants have heard in a long time is that Burgess Whitehead is ready to go again, and that's a fact.

Joe Louis is putting his dough into annuities and real estate. Joe drew more than $1,000,000 into the gate in six of his most important fights, the two with Schmeling and those with Braddock, Racer, Carnera and Levinson. . . . There'll be denial, but Sixto Escobar is supposed to be all signed up to defend his heavyweight title against Little Dado of Oakland.

Colonel Matt J. Winn has appointed Frank G. Menke to handle the Kentucky derby publicity again which means the colonel can forget all about the publicity. . . . If you're going pheasant hunting next fall, don't buy a gun, just go to Corning, N. Y., and rent a house. During two weeks last fall five birds banded ed and yelled for the manager. The song rang and Pesek and Kodrick started after their opponents. Their advantage was short. Pesek was tossed out of the ring again. When he came back in, Dorsetti and Franks piled Kodrick on the mat, put Pesek on top of him and then sat on the pile with Frank on top of all three. Imhoff found some of his shoulders on the mat and the fall and match went to Speedy and Dorsetti.

The show opened with a heavy-weight bout in which John Doering, Chicago Bear football player, and Olaf Olson moved ponderously for 30 minutes. Olson appeared willing to mix things up but Doering just didn't seem interested. Doering did use a couple of tactics as well as elbows and forearms in some fairly fast infighting. His best wrestling hold, however, seemed to be a right slap to the face.

Dutch Imhoff finally disqualified Olson after 20 minutes of grappling when his attempt at strangling became too persistent. A tangle between Imhoff and Olson followed but Doering still wasn't interested in the proceedings. Olson improved during the second fall. It took him only 10 minutes to be disqualified. He jumped up and down in protest but the bout was over.

"MOTHER AND DAD" night will be observed at Appleton High school gymnasium Friday evening when the Terror basketball team meets Green Bay East with parents of members of the first squad guests of the high school and seated in a special section. Between halves the parents will be introduced to the crowd.

Friday's game will mark ousting of Appleton or East from the five conference leaders. On paper Appleton has a slight advantage but the Red Devils have been improving with each start and may surprise.

Appleton cagers have kept at the grind over the holidays and are in top condition despite the fact there hasn't been any school since Dec. 23. Last week the Terror met Wausau in a non-conference game and sneaked off with a win.

Practice sessions have shown Coach Shields working with Warren Buesing on a shot from the free throw circle and lane. Last week against Wausau Buesing had numerous chances but was laying the ball against the board too hard and missed most of his tries.

IRON PLAY

Many golfers who have fair to middlin' success with their wooden shots find their irons a bit more difficult to handle. In many instances the trouble is due largely to an improper stance. Naturally for the medium iron shots one should not place the feet as wide apart as for a tee shot. In the drive, power is important while in the shorter irons, power must be regulated and accuracy stressed. This precision is better managed when the feet are close enough together to allow a smooth turn of the body and an unhindered decisive swing at the ball.

If there is no body turn the stroke is confined to the arms, accompanied at times by a lung lunge at the ball. Such procedure not only destroys accuracy but lacks any of the crisp hitting so necessary in decisive iron play. Standing near the ball, the player can swing in an upright manner and thus keep the clubhead on the correct path as it contacts it. Standing too far away lege game. Schade proved every remark Coach Art Denney has made in the last few days that "Schade will make the ball team." He got three followup shots, handled the ball well and did a highly satisfactory job on defense. Certainly he won't meet any tougher opposition than Pauler and the Pioneers this winter.

Lawrence Bows To Carroll Five By 36 to 33 Score

Obbie Plays Whole Game!

The other highlight in Lawrence play was Albert Novakowski who started the contest at forward and remained for the whole evening, a feat in itself for Obbie is inclined to use grid tactics now and then. He garnered three baskets, two free throws and played excellent defensive ball—getting in his hard jolts only when needed.

Harry Jackson was at the other forward and got only one basket but added three free throws, indicating he was watched rather closely. He has a nice one-handed shot and if he starts hitting will be hard to stop. On defense he did a lot of work getting rebounds.

George Bennetts and Wallie Cape were forward replacements, the former working in for number one, and the latter in for number two. He counted four free throws and missed two.

Ken Buesing, Norm Faleide and Art Kaemmer and there are no better competitors. Buesing and Faleide played practically the entire game, the latter going out on personal late in the contest.

Lawrence opened the scoring when Novakowski sank a free throw. He missed his second try and Schade pushed the ball back up the board for a goal and Lawrence led 3 to 0. Maahs gave Carroll a push shot but Schade followed up a second time and Lawrence led 5 to 2. Then Novakowski garnered a basket when he took a pass from Faleide, feinted his man out of position and counted.

Vikes Lead 7 to 3

With Lawrence leading 7 to 3, Carroll tied up the score on a one-handed push shot and a follow up. A free throw put the Pioneers ahead but Novakowski's long basket and Schade's follow up, after Jackson's shot was short, gave Lawrence an 11 to 8 edge with about ten minutes of play gone.

The pace the men were setting began to tell and when Lawrence eased up for a moment, Carroll grabbed the opportunity and evened the score at 12-all and then went ahead 17 to 12. Faleide made it 17 to 14 when he dribbled the length of the floor and canned the ball just before the half ended.

Knoblauch scored a long shot for Carroll as the second half opened but Buesing erased it with one for Lawrence. Each team got a free throw and then Faleide scored with Novakowski getting an assist and the count was 20 to 19 for Carroll. Jackson's goal with Buesing assisting put Lawrence ahead, 21 to 20, but a free throw evened the score at 21-all. A long shot for Carroll and two free throws for Lawrence made the count 23-all.

Offense Falters

Two long shots and a free throw, and a followup on a missed free throw, sent Carroll in front, 30 to 23. Here the Lawrence offense definitely failed to function with Carroll controlling the ball. The Pioneers turned in their greatest number of fouls while fighting for the ball during this period and it was free throws which kept the Vikes within halting distance.

With the score 34 and 29 for Carroll, Barry led the game on personal and then Binder, rugged Carroll guard. The last five minutes were literally a battle royal under the baskets with the teams fighting for possession of the leather. When Carroll had the ball it wasted as much time as possible while Lawrence drove hard in an effort to get another basket. Novakowski's goal

Allan Curtis, Hollywood's newest leading man discovery, played his first important screen role in "Mannequin," co-starring Joan Crawford and Spencer Tracy. This square-jawed six-footer is now appearing in an important role in "Burn 'Em Up O'Connor."

By Jimmie Fidler

Hollywood—Settlin' Around (RKO and Columbia): Irene Dunne, starring in RKO's "Love Affair," is starting the new year with a new set of rules governing her screen career. She is determined to make not more than three pictures a year because: (1) she wants time to enjoy her new home and to be with her husband and her adopted daughter; (2) she believes that long vacations result in better work; and (3) she is convinced the public soon tires of stars who are seen on the screen oftener than the times a year. She is resolved to alternate between comedies, musicals and dramas because: (1) by never appearing twice in succession in the same type of picture, her fans will have no opportunity to compare any production with its predecessor and (2) stars who establish their versatility are longer lived than those who allow themselves to be typed.

Irene is simply putting into practice the convictions of most screen greats. Ginger Rogers is demanding a chance at something besides dancing roles. Dick Powell and Joan Bonnell have rebelled because they were being typed. Sonja Henie wants to take off her skates for a picture or two. Tyrone Power is pleading for a comedy. Since the only stars who can regulate their careers by such ideas are those who free-lance, there is a general disinclination to sign up with any one studio—and economic conditions are making the studios chary of big contract lists. The net result promises to be the collapse of the old exclusive contract system. Hollywood is due for a new order of things.

CHATTER ABOUT RKO IDOLS: Astrid Allwyn, always the "other woman," spends most of her time talking about her tiny daughter. Irene Dunne learned to play the ukulele during a lunch hour—and it sounds just that way. Disturbing reflection about that Joy Hodges-Lee Bowman romance: it started while Lee was working in "Love Affair"—any publicity man might see a connection. Sometimes I think Eddie Cantor's eyes are that big to match the size of his heart. Cited for the Croix de Merite: Byron Stevens—just an extra, but asking no favors because his big sister Barbara Stanwyck is a star. It was Charles Boyer who financed the test that won his stand-in, Richmond Lynch, an acting contract. Carry Grant used to be a still walker, but since he's struck movie gold, he just walks on air.

Spent the morning chatting with Dick Barthelmess, who is playing a leading role in Columbia's "Plane Number Four" after a screen absence of years. In the afternoon, he was due for a thorough ducking in a tank of water—an uncomfortable experience at best—and, knowing that he has no need of money, I asked him why he was willing to return from comfortable retirement to all the annoyances that go with screen work. "I'm sager rather than willing," he said tensely. "You have no idea what retirement means to a man who is still young. I thought I could fill my life with hobbies—I'd always wanted to ride—but after a few months, they just bored me. I've been dying of boredom." Dick Barthelmess' attitude is typical—every star shelved in his thirties, seems to find money small compensation for work.

"Plane Number Four," being filmed on the largest outdoor set ever constructed, lists among its more interesting "props" 150 sea gulls. Miles of red tape was unraveled before Federal authorities would sanction their use and the head property man of the troupe had to pledge himself to guard their welfare as his own. The result of his very understandable anxiety proved pleasing to the gulls, but annoying to the director. Truckloads of fish were delivered on the location and the gulls gorged until they could eat no more. Having eaten, they became lazy and refused to fly. Yesterday's schedule had to be revised while the gulls were re-throwing their appetites.

"Wrong Way" Corrigan is taking a lot of kidding about his economics, but refuses to change his habits. When he reported for work at RKO, his wardrobe consisted of a leather jacket and a couple of pairs of pants. The studio supplied him with an overcoat to stare off the chill that's always present on a sound stage. His only cash outlay to date for clothes, according to his co-workers, went for two shirts and three pairs of socks. He bought them at a five-and-ten—and the total bill was $13.00!

Last year, during the Santa Anita racing season, I told you how the actors on every set haunted the telephones each afternoon to place their bets on the bangtails. There will be none of that this year at RKO. On every stage, the phone has

Steel Activity Poised to Push Forward in '39

Expect Gradual Improvement in Sales, Output This Month

Cleveland—Steel market activity is poised for a rebound this week, following a seasonable letdown over the holiday period, according to magazine Steel.

Full recovery of operating losses sustained the past two weeks will not occur immediately, but gradual improvement in both production and sales is indicated through January.

Christmas observance largely was responsible for last week's drop of 12 points to 40 per cent in the national operating rate. While this marked a reduction of 21 points since early December, the rate remained well above the average for the first six months of 1938.

Under 1937 Output
Total production of Bessemer and open-hearth steel ingots in 1938 was about 28,000,000 gross tons. This places the year ahead of 1931, 1932, 1933 and 1934 but substantially below the output of any other year since 1921. The decrease from 1937 production was 43.5 per cent. Second half of 1938 showed a decrease of only 17 per cent from the corresponding 1937 period, indicative of the sharp recovery in steelmaking the past six months.

Structural steel building and engineering construction materials will be sustained at a fairly high rate for several months by the large tonnage involved in public works contracts placed recently.

Heavy Awards
In contrast to the quiet common to the structural market at this period, awards the past week continued heavy. Principal orders included 5000 tons for an Ohio river bridge, Owensboro, Ky.; 5000 tons for a bridge, Stratford-Milford, Conn.; 4180 tons for a gun assembly shop, Washington; 1550 tons for a courthouse, Garden City, Long Island, N. Y.; and 1300 tons for a bridge, Kansas City, Kans.

Most automotive plants continue on a four-day week. Assemblies the next two months will be moderately below the November-December rate, but care exercised in avoiding accumulation of excessive stocks likely will prevent a sharp drop in first quarter production, such as occurred a year ago. Renewed steel buying by automotive interests is in prospect this month.

Prices Steady
The steel industry enters 1939 with prices steadier than in many months past. Stronger markets in reinforcing bars, merchant wire products and bolts and nuts contribute to the general stability.

Last Monday's holiday helped to bring steel production down 14 points to 26 per cent at Pittsburgh, 10.5 points to 46 per cent at Chicago, 3 points to 29 per cent in eastern Pennsylvania, 9 points to 50 per cent at Wheeling, 5 points to 77 per cent at Birmingham, 25 points to 42.5 per cent at Cincinnati, 9 points to 42.5 per cent at St. Louis, 11 points to 79 per cent at Detroit, 4.5 points to 39.5 per cent at Buffalo, and 12 points to 32 per cent at Youngstown. Cleveland was unchanged to 51, with New England holding at 70.

The WORLD of STAMPS

BY THE AP FEATURE SERVICE

The five-cent stamp pictorial set which El Salvador recently produced elicits the old style of border emphasis, but the central vignettes are interesting, clean-cut and nicely engraved by the American Bank Note Co.

The 1-centavo violet shows a crude native sugar mill, with a pair of oxen and two workers in the scene; 2-cent green, two native women at a washing pool; 3-cent brown, girl with a water-pot at a spring; 5-cent scarlet, a native ploughing with oxen; 6-cent blue, a yucca or sword plant.

This regular issue came very shortly on the heels of the commemorative set of four airmail stamps issued on August 18, to mark the centenary of the death of J. S. Canas. These, too, were printed by the same company.

Princesses on Stamp
Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret Rose, attractive daughters of George VI, will be pictured on the green 1-cent stamp of the trio to be issued by Canada next summer to hail the visit of Britain's king and queen. The brown two-cent stamp will depict the national war memorial which His Majesty will unveil next May. And the portraits of the king and queen will appear on the 3-cent stamp

THE ARMY POST MURDERS

By Virginia Hanson

ed dirt over the debris. And found the two smoke-blackened, white-washed stones. Actually there was little chance that they would ever be indicated on, if they were, that any significance would be attached to them. But murderers have to be scrupulously neat. He took them, intending, perhaps, to clean them or to exchange them for others in a less telltale position.

"So the weapon was in his hand when he reached bachelor quarters and overheard the sentry's innocent remark. . . . This morning I found the place where the stones had been, and in the loose dirt scraps of scarlet paper. . . . There was a little silence, then Captain Flower's scrupulous, exact mind dictated the final, the telling question.

"But this that you've told us is not enough—to convict a man, I mean. Scraps of evidence, pieced together with a little conjecture. The sentry must die. Anne might not live to tell that he shot her. If that is all, if there is no further evidence, why did Barney lose his head and try to escape?"

"Accusing him!"

It was the longest speech I had ever heard from the little man. It won for him a glance of affectionate admiration from Adam.

"You're quite right, Captain. It was not enough—though, by the way, I suspect that Anne has been trying to tell that he shot her every time she spoke his name. She was not asking for him but accusing him—that's why she fainted again when he came in the room.

"No. Except for the actual evidence of the fingerprints and the final attack on Anne, I guessed all this before. . . . The second attempt on Anne's life confirmed the guess, but it was the proof that was bothering me. And I found it—the ejected shell of the bullet with which she was actually shot."

There was a chorus of sharp, excited questions. He answered them in order.

"How?" By letting him lead me to it. Where? On the target range where cars often park at night, where he took her last night, where he actually shot her.

"How do I know it was the right one? It was a thirty-two and, as far as I know, the only gun of that caliber on the post belongs to Elizabeth. It can be proved that it was fired from her gun. It can be proved that her gun was never out of her possession until yesterday. Colonel Wright tells me that the gun was new and had never been fired on this post!

"Barney led me to the spot, and I picked the shell up in front of his eyes before he could put his foot on it and grind it into the turf. That's why he lost his nerve. That's why he shot himself. . . .

"The maiden, all forlorn," Adam quoted gently, taking his eyes from the road long enough to meet mine. "I'm sorry you're cutting your visit short—you're carrying away only memories."

"If it were only that. But I feel so inadequate. When she said good-by to Elizabeth apologized for having invited me. She had no idea, of course, of what was coming, but she knew the evening would be an ordeal and she wanted a friend—not to confide in, just to be near.

And, Adam, I scarcely saw her all evening."

I blinked at the corn rows we were passing. The iron fence had disappeared. Fort Ben Havens was behind me.

Adam said very soberly. "There are some things that no one can help us with—we have to go through them alone. You were there if she wanted you. I can understand that would be enough."

"Adam—why, if he loved Elizabeth, did he throw suspicion on her by using her gun and the Malay kris?"

Concluded tomorrow.

Building Totals $33,000 in Year

Inspector's Annual Report Shows Decline From 1937 Figure

New London—New building in New London totaled $33,820 during the year 1938, little more than half the $55,500 spent for new structures during the slight boom of 1937, according to the annual report of Victor Thomas, city building inspector.

Of the 1938 building, nearly one half the value is represented by the new $14,000 grain elevator and grist mill erected by the New London Farmers exchange. The elevator brought the last quarter's building to $18,940.

There were five new residences last year at a total cost of $10,400; eight private garages costing $4,095; business places totaling $1,700 besides the grist mill; and 14 other buildings for $3,425. Thirty permits netted $60 in fees during 1938. Fifty-two permits were issued in 1937.

Identify Wisconsin Birds

AMERICAN BITTERN

This is one of a series of 43 brief articles describing birds common to Wisconsin. It is suggested that readers clip these articles and illustrations for a scrapbook.

The American Bittern nests from the southern border of the United States to the Arctic Circle and is more common in Wisconsin than the average person's outdoor experience might indicate.

The body of this bird is the size of that of a small hen but it has a long neck and legs and a long pointed bill. Its colors are a dull yellow, soft reddish-buff and black. Its wing-spread is 37 to 45 inches. Its concealing coloration and solitary, stealthy habits make it difficult to find and often it will stand with its neck and bill pointing straight upward to make it look like a dead bush.

The American Bittern, wintering in the southern part of the United States and as far south as Panama, usually appears in Wisconsin during the first half of April and leaves during the first half of April and leaves during October and November.

Its nest is a platform of grasses and rushes on the ground in meadows or wet marshes, and often on upland near sloughs.

Its food is almost any small animal life it can get, such as crawfish, small snakes, mice, lizards, frogs, small fish and insects. To offset its shyness and its ability to hide, the American Bittern makes a loud "pumping" noise during the spring and early summer. Many people who have not seen the bird have heard it.
